Students pick Bush as election favorite

By THOMAS M. VARCIE
ANP Staff Writer

If the presidential election were staged today in Romulus Senior High School, George Bush would be president.

That's the word from an informal poll conducted Friday for the Romulus Roman by students in Dr. Harry Willnus's third- and fourth-hour American government classes.

Of the 28 students polled in Willnus's fourth-hour government class, Bush was unanimously chosen as the Republican nominee. Michael Dukakis was chosen as the Democratic nominee with 25 votes, and the Rev. Jesse Jackson placed second with three votes.

In the event that no candidates could receive enough votes for the Democrat nomination and a draft were to be staged, seven students believed Chrysler Chairman Lee Iacocca would be the logical choice.

By a vote of 27-1, students voted Bush in as the next president of the United States. Only one vote went to Dukakis.

The majority of students chose Robert Dole to become the vice president under Bush. Other votes went to Dukakis, with two votes, and actor Burt Reynolds, who received one vote.

Concurring with some reports that have indicated that Dole's advisors have urged him to retire from the race, more than half of the class indicated that he should quit. Some students said, "He has a good chance of becoming the vice president."

The majority of the students also believed media coverage of the presidential candidate should not include personal lives. The issue surfaced after discussing former presidential contender Gary Hart.

The students said, "Their privacy should be protected. We don't need to know what goes on in their private lives."

On the other hand, some students said the candidates should be carefully examined by the news media. They concluded, "We want to know who our president is going to be. We don't want to have any secrets come out."

The students also favored a halt on tax increases and a nuclear arms reduction as issues they would like to see the new president tackle. They also supported a balanced budget, economic prosperity and world peace.

Another issue some students responded to was relations between the Soviet Union and the U.S.

"I think it will be years to come before there's any relations with the U.S. and the Soviets," said Scott Kilgore, a senior. "I don't think we'll ever be allies because once the U.S. is taken out, Russia's up there - number one power. So if there's any kind of war, Russia's going to team-up to take us out."

Rick Christian, also a senior, added, "I don't think we'd ever be friends completely because it would take a lot of presidents and a lot of years to be friends because they're communists, and we're democratic. They tell their people what to do, and we have a Bill of Rights. We know what we can do."

"They control all the major industries and transportation. There's no free enterprise. Here you can make money and go for what you want. There, they tell you what you go for," explained Cory Lake, a senior.

At the national and local level, students generally felt, through their participation in a government class and study of the political system, that they had an increased desire to vote. Some students had desires to work for a candidate as volunteers, two desired to seek office, and one student wanted to join a political party.

The newspaper surveys were conducted as part of continuing coverage of the election and the schools.

New property values prompt tax increases

By RAY DAY
ANP Managing Editor

Romulus residents received good news in the mail last week. Property values increased 5.31 percent in 1987 compared to the year before.

But that also means that the annual tax bill will increase, a fact some residents have not accepted lightly.

City council members and officials from the assessor's office reported more calls than usual this week, after a notice of increased property assessments was sent to each property owner in the city last week. Matthew Raftary, Romulus assessor, said all residential properties in the city were reassessed this year, after a county study showed that they were being under-assessed.

Results of the study for all Wayne County communities by the Wayne County Assessment and Equalization Division revealed that Romulus property owners were, in 1987, assessed 47.35 percent of the market value of their property. Under provisions of the state constitution, properties must be assessed at 50 percent of the fair market value. If a community is assessing the properties at less than 49.01 percent or more than 50, county officials require a community-wide reassessment.

"Basically, the county determined that the residential properties as a whole were under-assessed. We maintain our tax rolls relatively well, but the market in the past two years has increased the value of property," Raftary said. "Everyone in the city had an adjustment this year, although it was the first (citywide reassessment) since 1982."

Council wants cassette tapes returned by former treasurer

By RAY DAY
ANP Managing Editor

Romulus City Council members want former Treasurer John Lewkowicz to return $614 in cassette tapes to the city to preserve a provision of the city charter. But the same council members aren't willing to enter into a legal battle if the former city official refuses to oblige.

Current Treasurer James L. Napiorkowski asked council members for support Monday night on "pursuing the matter further and take whatever action that is necessary in order to recover the city's property." Council members, meeting for their regular council session, decided not to take official action on the measure in what was sometimes a heated debate among members of the body.

Napiorkowski pointed to a provision of the city charter, in demanding that Lewkowicz return to the city 283 audio tapes the former treasurer used to record council meetings. Lewkowicz, according to city records, had requested the tapes for use by his office from Feb. 27, 1984, through Sept. 18, 1987.

While criticizing Lewkowicz's need to tape city council meetings for his own use when the city clerk already performed the task, Napiorkowski said the principle of the matter is the point he is trying to defend.

"We cannot make exceptions. (Lewkowicz) admitted that he has the tapes, but he did not feel he should have to turn them over," Napiorkowski said. "He felt it was his property."

However, according to section 4.17 of the Romulus City Charter, "When any elective or appointive officer or employee of the city has qualified and is entitled to assume the duties of his office, his predecessor in such office or position shall surrender to him forthwith all the books, papers, records and other city property which may be in his possession. The failure of such predecessor to comply with this provision shall constitute a misdemeanor."

Napiorkowski, who defeated the veteran city official Lewkowicz in the November election by a vote of 1,400-1,333, said he has little use for the tapes. However, he would turn them over to the city clerk or storage area for future use in other city departments.

"In prior communications I have sent to you, I have expressed my concern. . .," Napiorkowski said. "After pursuing the matter myself and also asking the city attorney to contact Mr. Lewkowicz, the matter is still unresolved."

Council Jimmie Raspberry criticized Napiorkowski for questioning the matter. Raspberry claimed the new treasurer has

Honors: Nault chosen person of year by Romulus Chamber

By THOMAS M. VARCIE
ANP Staff Writer

Gerald Nault, 67, is the Romulus Person of the Year for 1988.

The award is given by the Greater Romulus Chamber of Commerce to honor one member who has given much to the betterment of the community.

Nault has participated in many Romulus activities and organizations, has been married for 42 years, with six children and 10 grandchildren, was a school teacher in Romulus for 40 years, flew in World War II in a B-24 airplane . . . and the list of accomplishments continue almost endlessly.

Nault is founder of the Gregorian Club at St. Aloysius Church, charter member and former president of the Investment Club, member and former president of the Romulus Progressive Club, charter member of the Romulus Kiwanis Club, former Romulus High School Principal, former Romulus Recreation Department Director, member of the merchants' bowling league and the teachers' bowling league and former Romulus High School football and baseball coaches.

"I've done a lot for the community. Every time there is a job, I get selected to head it," he said. "My wife told me I was the greatest person in the world for getting unpaid jobs."

Nault learned he was selected for the honor in a surprise announcement at the Romulus Chamber of Commerce Christmas party. He said he did not even know he was nominated until the announcement was made.

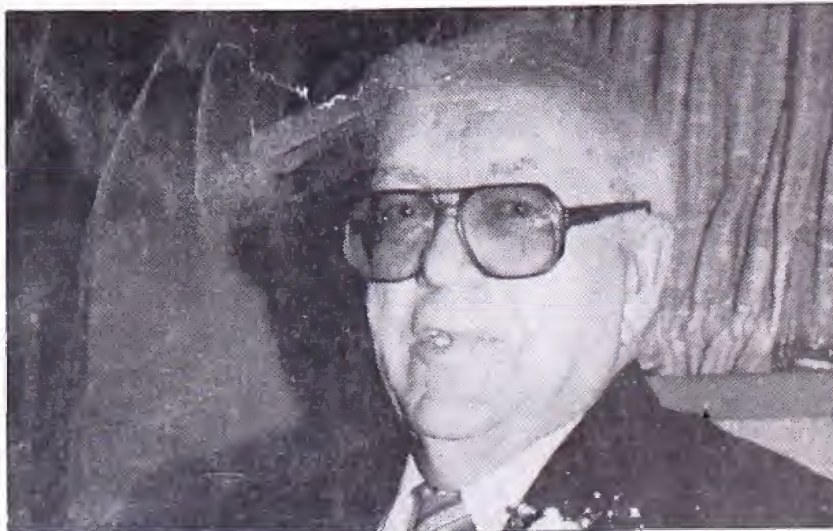

Nault, a former drafting instructor at the high school, said he was raised in Ishpeming, Mich. He worked in chemistry labs at the Cleveland Cliffs Mining Co., Ishpeming. During his time there, he went to Northern Michigan College of Education (now Northern Michigan University).

However, Nault said, his education took a detour through Europe during World War II. During the war, Nault was with the 389th bomber group. From 1942 to 1945, he was stationed in Europe, while functioning in non-combat roles.

After the war, he continued his education and, eventually, earned a master's degree in industrial education from Wayne State University.

Nault began joining organizations shortly after arriving in Romulus.

"The city's treated me, well, all right. I have no complaints. Basically, I like the people, and I've always liked the kids. I was always a successful teacher. The kids loved me," Nault said.

Taxes

Equalized Value as they are technically called — are used to determine the amount of taxes a property owner should pay. The S.E.V. is equal to one-half the fair market value of the home.

Property owners must pay $1 in taxes for every $1,000 of S.E.V. times the number of mills levied in the community. In Romulus, residents are levied 70.12 mills for all millage districts, and the average home value is $43,869. Thus, the owner of a home valued at $43,869 would have an S.E.V. of $21,935. His annual tax bill would be the S.E.V. ($21,935) times the number of mills levied in the community (70.12) divided by 1,000 — or $1,538.08 in taxes each year.

Because property values were being under-assessed in 1987, county officials recommended that all assessments be increased by 5.31 percent this year, Raftary said. This increase would have been an across-the-board increase for all residential, commercial and industrial taxpayers, he continued.

It would also have been unfair to many residents, Raftary said, since property values did not increase by 5.31 percent in all parts of the city.

"It really depends on where the property is," Raftary explained.

"Adjustments (in assessments) varied between 1 and 9.14 percent."

Residents living in the Huron River Estates realized the biggest increase in property values last year and also the highest increase in assessments — 9.14 percent, Raftary said. Properties in the northeast corner of the city, near Van Born and Middlebelt, increased only marginally in value last year, and only a 1-percent increase in assessment was used in the area.

"Rather than reassessing 5 percent across the board, we did our own study to put the adjustments where they should have been," Raftary explained.

Nevertheless, Raftary admits that the citywide reassessment and increased property values have been a shock to some residents. The sharp increase, he said, falls on the heels of a period of residential assessments that remained unchanged in 1983, 1984, 1985 and 1986. Some property values increased slightly in 1987, the city assessor said, but not to the extent of the current year.

But there is hope for the future. A new computer system expected to be put "on line" this year at the Romulus City Hall should make gradual property value increases possible on an annual basis, avoiding a substantial increase after many years of no change. The new city budget should also offer some tax relief, as city officials are considering a .5 mill reduction in the number of mills levied for city government operations.

Mayor Beverly McAnally said Monday she will present her more than $9 million, 1988 fiscal-year general fund budget to council members later this month. In 1987, the operating budget was set at $7.2 million, and Romulus residents were levied 9.2 mills for city government operations.

Next year, however, the mayor said she hopes to reduce that levy to 8.7 mills for residents. The tax rollback will be possible due to increased developments in the city and the return of several businesses previously granted tax abatements to the tax rolls.

Nevertheless, the increase in property values in the city this year will cost the owner of a home valued at $43,869 about $81.62 extra for all taxes this year. That figure is based on the "average" 5.31 percent increase in property values revealed by the county.

The property tax increases also will mean a $5 million increase in the total S.E.V. of all property in the city of Romulus. The city government will gain about $55,000 in new tax revenues because of the increase, city officials said, and the Romulus Public Schools will "receive" almost $3 million extra in new tax revenues. The school district will not actually gain the new monies, however, because any increase in revenues from property taxes is offset by an equal decrease in state aid because the school district in an "in formula" school system (receives partial funding from the state).

Opposing the new assessment

Even though the notices of new tax assessments indicate what the new assessment of property will be, residents do not have to automatically accept the city calculation, Raftary said. Property owners can protest their assessments to the local board of review, which is meeting now until March 25 in the Romulus City Hall.

Those wanting to appear before the board of review must make an appointment by calling 942-7520. The board meets only in March, and after March 25, current property assessments cannot be protested.

If the property owner is still unhappy with the local board of review decision, he can take his case to the Michigan Tax Tribunal. For the Wayne County district, the Tax Tribunals meet year-round in Detroit as an appeals court.

Appointments for the Romulus Board of Review are being taken from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. until March 25.

Tapes

a "vendetta" against Lewkowicz and that if the provisions of the city charter are to be strictly enforced, all members of the council could be considered in violation.

"This to me looks like a vendetta. If we are going to do this, we should go back to everyone who has left office and ask that city property be returned," Raspberry said. "The charter does say you turn it over to your successor. But I have to laugh because there are so many people breaking the charter any how."

Raspberry reminded council members that all city officials are given city property when they take office — including building keys, a brief case and file cabinet.

All council members, except Raspberry, agreed that the tapes should be returned so that the charter would not be violated.

"I don't like being put in this position as a council member," said Council Chairman Mary Ann Banks. "(But) they were city tapes. That's the taxpayers' money. Council is going to have to take some sort of action."

However, Raspberry said, if this provision of the charter is to be followed, another charter section which prohibits city council members from receiving employee benefits from the city should also be followed.

"The charter is not being followed right now, but no one has the backbone to do something about it," Raspberry said. "We have a colleague who is breaking the charter right now."

Raspberry was referring to Councilman Alan Lambert, absent from the meeting, who has been training to become a police officer in the city. Raspberry claims that Lambert cannot be both a police officer in training and member of the city council at the same time.

Councilman Ellis Pennington, however, disagreed with Raspberry's reasoning. "Mr. Raspberry, as far as I am concerned, Mr. Lewkowicz is in violation of the city charter," Pennington said. "I'm not talking about our colleague."

Nevertheless, Lewkowicz said yesterday that he is not breaking any city charter provisions nor does he expect to return the tapes.

"I think it's my property because I have always had a practice of keeping a record," Lewkowicz said. "For some reason, they wanted to take that away from me."

Lewkowicz said he has 283 tapes, some of which he purchased himself and others he ordered while employed by the city. However, he said, the tapes should be considered usable products of the job, such as a paper, pencils and photocopies.

"I bought a lot of the tapes myself to start with. Then, it got easier to just order them. It was more convenient," Lewkowicz said. "They are not city property. It's like pencil and paper and copies of financial records I used for my own purposes."

"I never spent a cent inappropriately, but I do want to have proof," he continued.

Council members decided to take no action on the matter, giving Napiorkowski the authority to handle the case. Napiorkowski said he would continue to ask for the return of the tapes, but, he said, a response is not expected.

RISK FACTORS, SYMPTOMS

Some of the risk factors include age, smoking, high blood pressure, diabetes, high cholesterol, family history, and obesity.

Heart attack symptoms include:

- Pressure or pain in the chest that lasts longer than two minutes;
- Pressure or pain that spreads to arms, back, shoulders, or neck; and
- Dizziness, fainting, sweating, nausea, or shortness of breath.

Not all of these symptoms may be present, and they may come and go and return again.

The most important thing to remember is to take them seriously even though it may be a false alarm.

Don't be afraid to risk the embarrassment of a negative finding, it may save your life.

INCREASE YOUR CHANCES

Play it safe. Risk the embarrassment. By getting to a medical facility with 24-hour emergency cardiac care such as Oakwood Hospital, you'll greatly increase your chances of surviving and recovering.

There are new treatments that can prevent a full-blown heart attack and minimize heart damage if the treatment is begun within the first few hours after symptoms start.

ROMULUS DIGEST

Suspect sought
in assault case

Romulus police officials are looking for the man who they believe assaulted with intent to murder a 39-year-old Niagara Street resident early Friday morning.

The woman was attacked at about 5:20 a.m., as she entered her garage. She was stabbed several times with a knife to the arms and body and escaped to her home. Family members inside phoned for police assistance, according to reports.

The suspect fled the scene.

Police said the two were once involved in a dating relationship and suspect the stabbing may have been the result of a quarrel.

Service award
nominees needed

Members of the Romulus Recreation Advisory Board are still seeking nominees for the distinguished service award given by the commission.

The award is presented to an outstanding recreational supporter from the city. The candidate must have spent at least five years in a volunteer capacity in one or more recognized recreational activities in the city. All nominations must be submitted before 4:30 p.m. April 3 at the Romulus Recreation Department.

No answer in lobbyist fight

Romulus school officials failed to receive any solid answers as to whether or not they should continue a joint lobbying effort with the Romulus City Council to encourage the taxing of concessions at the Metropolitan Airport.

Dr. William Bedell, superintendent of schools, said Monday that a proposed meeting last Wednesday between the lobbying firm of Karoub and Associates - hired by the city and schools to lobby for the airport tax - and state officials did not net many answers since representatives of Karoub did not attend.

"We are now going to have to talk to the city. We have got to have an answer from them on where we are headed," Bedell said.

Council to settle suit

Romulus City Council members voted unanimously to approve a $7,500 settlement to a man claiming to have been physically abused after being arrested by a Romulus police officer Feb. 28.

In the suit, the arrested man sought damages for the physical pain he suffered after claiming to have been beaten in the face with a black object by a Romulus police officer.

Police officers at the scene have denied the allegations, but the arrested man, his girlfriend and members of his family have said they would testify that he suffered excessive bruises and cuts to his ribs, scrotum and face and marked swelling on his face, where he is said to have been beaten.

Romulus attorneys recommended the settlement, after a mediator concluded that "because of the objective physical injuries and the problems with the police officer's testimony, it is highly probable that the jury will believe the plaintiff and make a finding of excessive abuse . . ."

Clarification

A story in the March 9 issue of the Romulus Roman titled "Teens: Proposed center would focus on health" stated that there is one school nurse for the students and is not licensed to give shots. The article should have made it clear that the nurse is licensed to give shots, but according to Kathleen Conway, project director for the Romulus Adolescent Health Advisory Committee, the nurses do not traditionally give shots to students.

Superintendent of Romulus schools Dr. William Bedell said, "The nurse is qualified and is registered to give shots. But it is of no importance because we can't give shots."

He added that state law tightly controls what kind of medication schools can administer.

Carving a reputation

Senior keeps busy with wood

By THOMAS M. VARCIE
ANP Staff Writer

Hubert Gilbert has retired...again.

Gilbert's first retirement came about 10 years ago after spending 22 years as a welder. This time, he has retired from his career as a carpenter and woodworker, much to the dismay of his family, friends and neighbors at the Romulus Towers senior citizens apartment complex.

Gilbert, now 79, began his woodworking career without any prior guidance or experience. He began with a picnic table and graduated to lamps, plant stands, chairs, picture frames and cabinets.

Gilbert said he used a room located in the towers where he would perform his work. He and a neighbor both used the room to make items for themselves and other residents.

"There was nothing to do so we started woodworking. We were allowed to use a room and started making stuff," Gilbert said. "I would get the supplies from Forest City or anyplace that I could get wood cheap."

Gilbert is a strong believer in experience as a teacher and explained that his skill came strictly from the trial and error method.

None of his 19 great grandchildren, 16 grandchildren, four children or his wife of 60 years ever were committed to woodworking, or for that matter, even tried it.

Gilbert certainly wasn't offered woodworking skills as part of his high school curriculum in Lincoln Park where he attended school prior to the area becoming a city. Nor did he gain any experience in carpentry while serving in the 750th field artillery in Europe during World War II where he was a technician 3rd Class.

"I became a cook in the army. I went in the army as a truck driver and came out as a cook," he said.

After the war, he became a welder for a company in Belleville and moved to the Towers with his wife, Margaret, 78, when he retired...the first time.

"To keep him busy, he would make things for people and sell them for what it cost him. He would repair chairs and make cabinets," his wife said.

Gilbert made an entertainment center which fits neatly into the multi-purpose room in the Towers. He mentioned he also made an entertainment center for a senior complex in Wayne.

"I liked doing it for the people because it kept me busy. Sometimes it could really get boring in there if you don't do something," Gilbert said.

Even after his success at woodworking, Gilbert said he never thought about starting a business. He said he only wanted to make items that the people wanted individually or as a group.

Gilbert explained that his most recent retirement was forced by poor health. He said he has become too weak to continue woodworking. He has not made any projects for about four months.

"I'm too old and feeble to start now. I'm in awful bad health. I just sold my tools a few weeks ago," the craftsman said.

Much to the regret of his faithful clients.

Asbestos test: School board approves study

By RAY DAY
ANP Managing Editor

A $22,000 contract to study asbestos levels in the Romulus schools was awarded to Trust Thermal, of Perry, by members of the Romulus School Board Monday night.

The study is required by the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency, according to Dr. William Bedell, superintendent of schools. Federal officials have launched a stepped-up effort at ridding schools of asbestos ceilings and floors, Bedell said, and all schools must allocate funding for the study.

A similar survey was contracted by school officials in 1982. However, an updated report is being required, Bedell said, to comply with new federal guidelines.

"In 1982, we did the entire district. We sent solid samples away, and they came back saying there were some minor concentrations of asbestos - mainly in the high school," Bedell said. "Then we did an airborne test and found out that we were one-tenth of 100 percent below the accepted standards.

"But we spent $110,000 anyway and replaced the high school ceiling in 1984," he continued. "Asbestos is something really dangerous, so we thought it best to replace everything."

In the new study, Romulus school buildings must meet the federal government new stiffer standards for asbestos, including inspections for friable and non-friable asbestos-containing building materials, management plans, training of custodial and maintenance staff and assessments and response actions.

Bedell said only a few boiler rooms in the district need asbestos material replacement. No classrooms contain the substance, which has been shown to cause cancer and health problems to those exposed to it.

IN OTHER ACTION, board members approved the borrowing of about $3.5 million for general school operations, using tax anticipation notes. TANS, as they are called, are used each year by school officials as a way to speed the process of receiving taxpayers' money.

The school district will obtain the loan from a bank and repay the loan when summer tax bills begin arriving in August and September.

Board members also conducted the personnel evaluation of Bedell, the superintendent of schools. The annual performance review was conducted in a closed, nonpublic meeting of board members. Findings are expected to be released at the next school board meeting, Bedell said.

Suspect identified in robberies

Romulus police have identified a suspect they believe is responsible for the recent armed robberies of two Romulus motels.

The suspect is thought to be the individual who held up a clerk at the Roadway Inn on Feb. 19 and Sheraton Inn on March 2. In both cases, the suspect claimed to have a gun, demanded money from the cash drawer and fled on foot.

The man, police said, is currently being held in Oakland County by Farmington Hills police on similar charges. Romulus police expect to seek warrants for his arrest and arraignment in connection with the two local crimes.

City cable contribution comes from budget not Barden

Romulus School Board Trustee Howard Kesner will be meeting soon with representatives of the city in an effort to see if the schools and the city might pool their efforts and funds to provide local cable access programming for the area. While the schools will receive $10,000 as an allotment from the Barden Cablevision Company, which provides cable service in the city, the city has budgeted that amount to provide cable programming

Mutual aid: Police chiefs want formal plan

By BETH SUNDRLA
ANP Staff Writer

Western Wayne County is now in the process of enacting a mutual aid program prompted in part by the major plane crash in the area in 1987.

Mutual aid is a program of procedures designed for cases of emergency or disaster. In the event of an emergency in one community, other municipalities agree to send aid in the form of manpower and vehicles to that community.

"It's been a long time coming," said Romulus Police Chief Charles Wilmoth.

Most of Michigan already has mutual aid programs. The crash of Northwest Flight 255 in Romulus, Pope John Paul II's visit and the shooting of three police officers at the Bungalow Motel in Inkster in 1987 brought awareness of the need for mutual aid in western Wayne County.

Canton Township Director of Public Safety John Santomauro said the program had been in the works before these incidents. "The plan was under way before the crash, but both the crash and the incident in Inkster prompted us to take a look and get the final touches on a plan," he said.

"We have had a somewhat informal group," Wilmoth said. "It was never formally organized." During the riots of 1967 communities organized, but that was only in response to riots. The organization died off after that time, Wilmoth said.

The crash of flight 255 emphasized the need to formalize, Wilmoth said. "It's comforting to a police chief, or even a mayor or town manager to have an organization like this," he said.

"Everybody responded to the crash," Wilmoth said. "But it would be nice to have an organized response," he said.

The regional plan

The area-wide Mutual Aid agreement between police departments would include participation from 43 communities and would serve almost 2.3 million residents in southeastern Michigan. Assistance would also be provided by the Wayne County Sheriff's office and the State Police.

A breakdown of the regions is included below.

Region I - Metro (1.2 million residents)

Detroit
Highland Park
Hamtramck

Region II - Western (743,000 residents)

Garden City	Redford Township	Dearborn Heights
Westland	Livonia	Dearborn
Inkster	Plymouth	Huron Township
Wayne	Plymouth Township	Sumpter Township
Canton Township	Taylor	Romulus
Northville Township	Northville	Van Buren Township
Belleville

Region III - Downriver (274,000 residents)

Melvindale	Allen Park	Lincoln Park
Ecorse	River Rouge	Southgate
Wyandotte	Browntown Twp.	Riverview
Woodhaven	Trenton	Grosse Ile Twp.
Rockwood	Gibraltar

Region IV - Grosse Pointes (69,000 residents)

Grosse Pointe Woods	Harper Woods	Grosse Pointe Twp.
Grosse Pointe Farms	Grosse Pointe	Grosse Pt. Park

The Western Wayne County Fire Chiefs' Association critiqued the incidents in terms of what could be done to coordinate departments in response to a tragedy, Santomauro said.

Under the mutual aid program, in the event of some type of disaster an official would only need to make one phone call to bring in extra aid or to enact an emergency operations council.

Western Wayne County communities are cooperating in the mutual aid plan. The plan has been drafted among the communities and is based on county and state emergency preparedness plans.

"A lot of the departments are under 10 years old in western Wayne County," Santomauro said. With the growth of the area comes the growth of crime and this brought about the necessity of better cooperation between departments, he said.

This can be seen in other cooperative efforts such as the Narcotics Task Force and the Auto Theft Task Force, Santomauro said.

"This annex will only be activated when the need to coordinate massive multi-jurisdictional law enforcement resources becomes necessary," the plan preface states.

If a disaster occurred in one region it would affect the others and result in a competition for resources. "The result could delay delivery of disaster relief services and the restoration of normal government services. For that reason it is absolutely necessary for all decision makers to congregate at one location and from there coordinate overall disaster response and recovery effort," the preface says.

The downriver communities have a very formal organization, and the western Wayne organization is patterned after it, Wilmoth said.

MINUTES OF THE REGULAR MEETING OF THE ROMULUS CITY COUNCIL HELD FEBRUARY 8, 1988,
IN THE ROMULUS CITY HALL COUNCIL CHAMBERS.

Council decision must benefit all

Elected officials must make a variety of difficult decisions each day they hold the keys to public office. Using the wisdom and sound sense of ethical values voters saw in them on election day, these politicians must remain constantly dedicated to protecting and preserving the best interests of their community and the citizens of it.

This statement of political theory and keen moral character must hold true even when such a decision would be in conflict with the personal interests of the elected officials who must make it. Even in the city of Romulus.

We speak of Romulus Councilman Alan Lambert. We speak of Lambert's decision to join the Romulus Police Department as a trainee, with the eventual hope of becoming a certified police officer. We speak of the controversy Lambert's new job has created among Romulus city officials, who are unsure whether or not Lambert is violating the city charter by creating a conflict of interest for himself and the city.

But, most of all, we speak of Lambert's imminent responsibility to make a decision that would best serve the voters who placed in him their full faith and trust when they elected him into office. Lambert, we believe, has two choices—immediately resign from his seat on the city council and continue to seek employment opportunities with the city of Romulus or withdraw his bid for a police officer's job and begin to again serve the city as a councilman.

The Lambert controversy began in Romulus Jan. 18—the day Lambert was placed on the city payroll as a police trainee. After a 15-week course at the police academy, the city councilman will become a certified police officer.

Lambert is paid for his work as a police trainee in wages and health and life insurance benefits, and he is also paid for being a city councilman—although he has returned his council checks to the city for February and March, apparently because he thinks the absence of a monetary transfer will allow him to skirt the issue of conflict of interest.

We believe it only makes matters more confusing.

The Romulus City Charter is quite clear on a variety of issues. For example, "Each member of the council shall receive an annual salary . . . No member of the council shall be eligible to participate in any retirement or pension plan, hospital, health or accident or life insurance plan or similar benefit adopted by the council for employees of the city . . . The council shall meet not less than three times each month in the city council chambers in the city of Romulus . . ."

Most distressing in the Lambert controversy is the fact that Lambert has chosen not to attend the last five city council meetings. Although Lambert has not been available for comment on the absence, we are sure that the voters who supported him in the last election didn't expect that they would be endorsing an empty chair on the highest legislative body in the city.

Alan Lambert, we believe, would never intentionally violate the city charter or seek to destroy the bond of trust and dedication between him and the voters. Lambert, we feel, truly does have the best interests of the city at heart and has proven so with his more than six years of service to the city as a councilman.

But Lambert also has begun a new chapter in his life and is on the road of a new career path and new sense of personal interests. Before choosing to become a police officer, Lambert should have examined his job as a councilman and made the necessary decisions before taking on any new roles. Despite the absence of such a move, Lambert's decision must still be made.

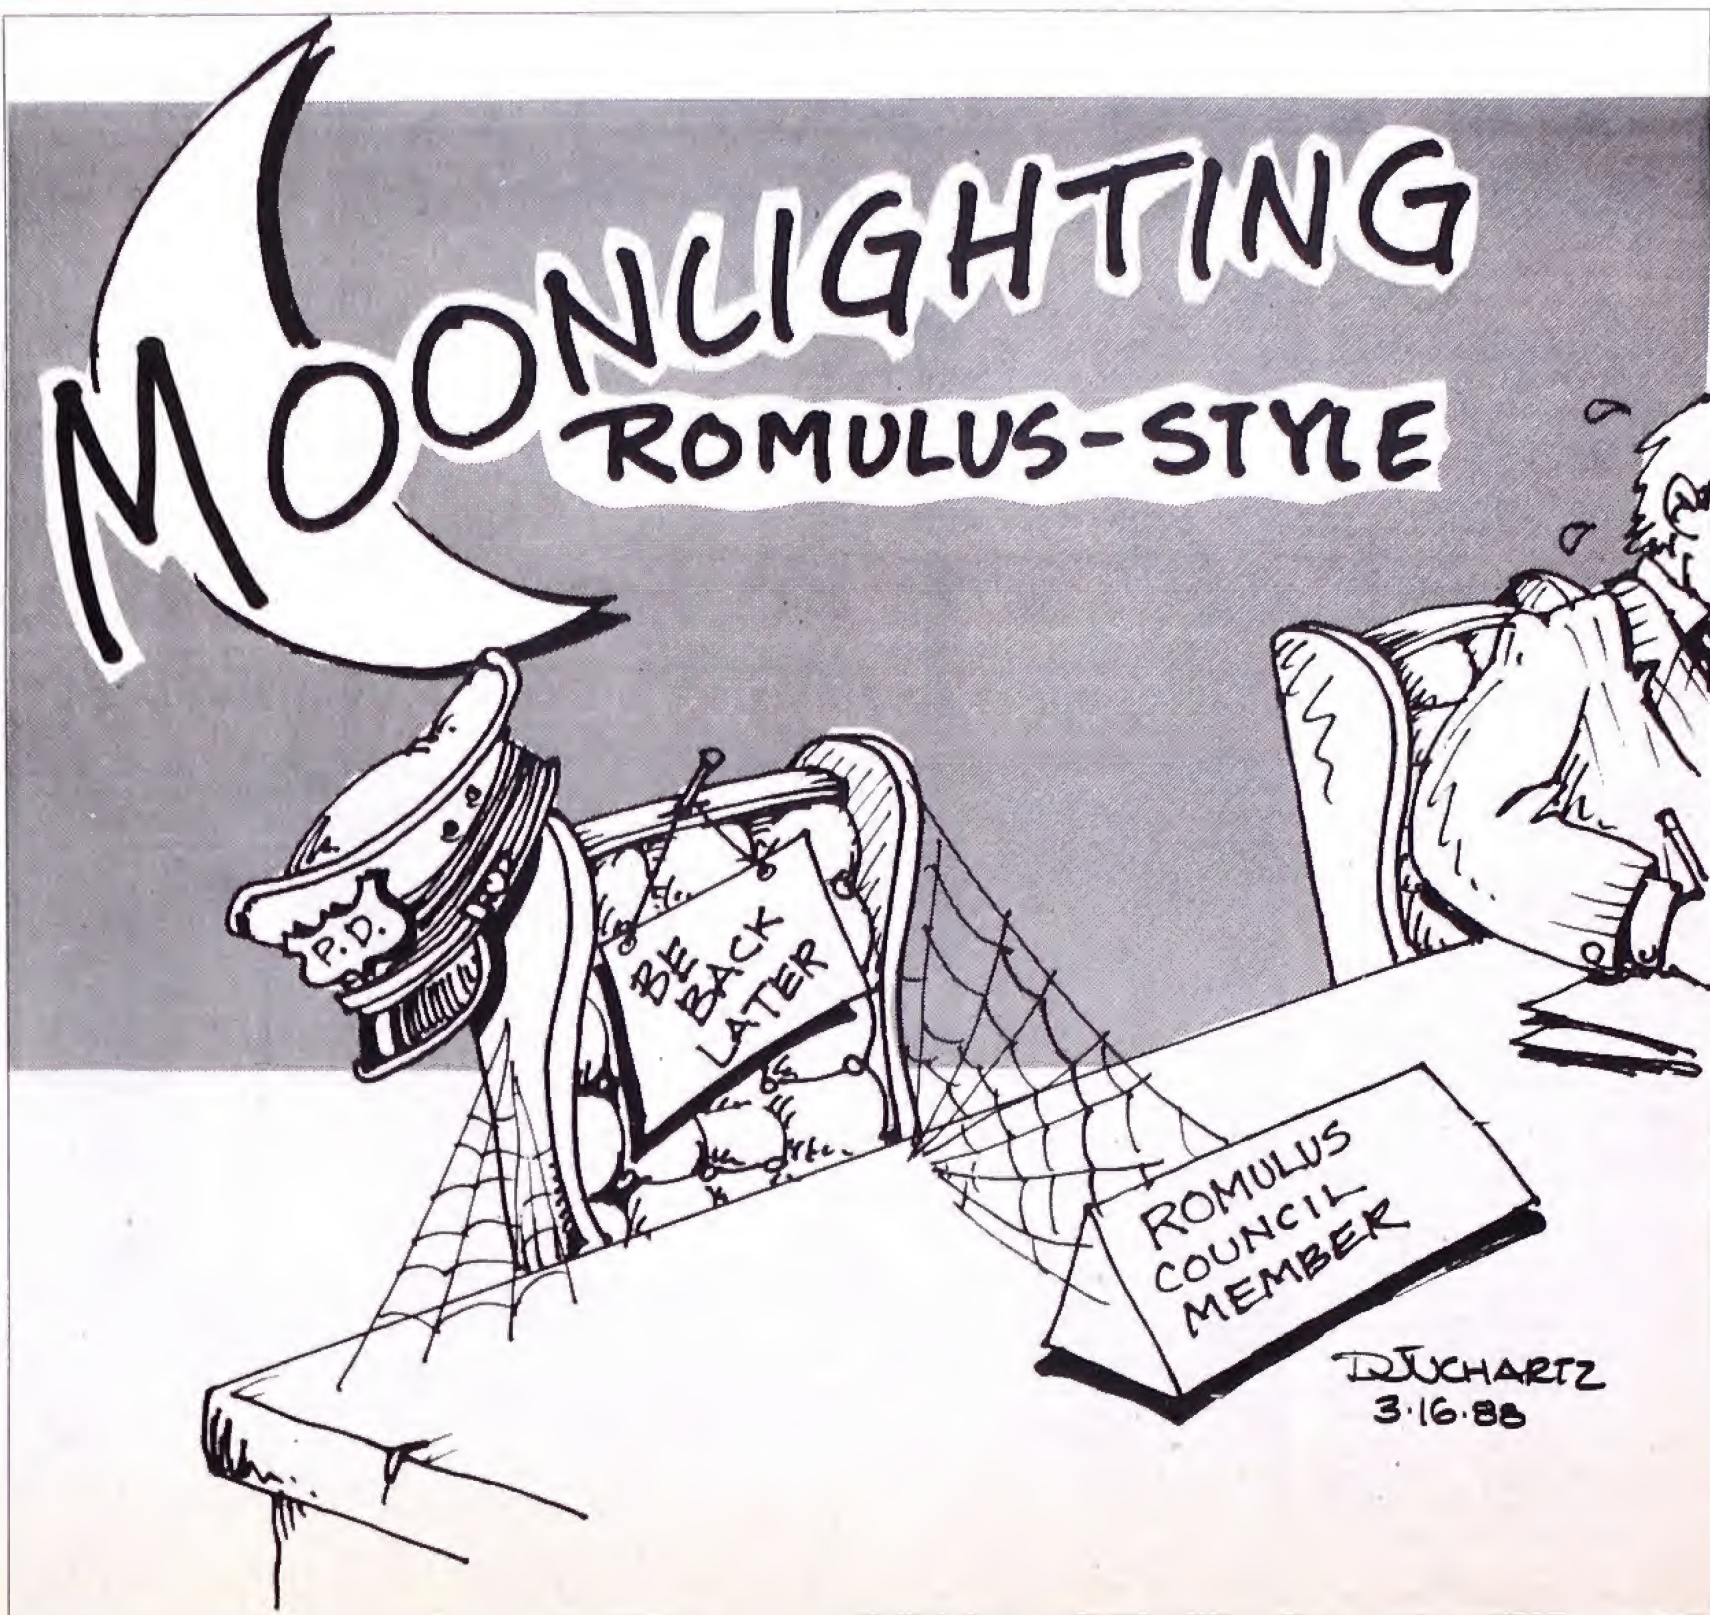

The Lambert controversy in Romulus is a test of the very principles on which this country was based. The Romulus City Charter can be compared to the U.S. Constitution in providing the law of the land by which all citizens must abide. True, both the charter and the Constitution are subject to interpretation in matters of great complexity.

But this issue, we believe, is quite clearly defined and is not a question of law. For even a high-placed legal interpretation cannot overshadow a poor judgment call in the game of ethics.

As your newspaper, it is our job to be the watchdog of government. Were we to shirk from our duties and ignore what we believe is a grave conflict of interest on the city council, we would undermine our own standards of professionalism and ethical values. We have presented the facts and our own opinions of them. Now, it is up to the citizens and lawmakers to react.

Today, we urge Romulus Councilman Alan Lambert to decide the future of his office as a councilman and career in the Romulus Police Department. This decision must be made at once, as a continued avoidance of the issue will only further be an embarrassment to the city and law of the land.

This decision, no doubt, won't be an easy one for the councilman. But, then again, making difficult decisions on behalf of the best interests of the city is just another part of the job.

Article shows positive program

To The Editor:

I would like to express by personal thanks to you for your article in the February 24th issue of the Romulus Roman. The "Young at Art" story was well received by parents, teachers and administrators.

The developmental kindergarten program is not always well understood by the community. I appreciated the clear and accurate presentation of the program along with the importance of the art program as a learning tool for children. Art and music are often considered "frills," but they are, in fact, a very important part of learning.

My principal pointed out the appropriateness of the placement of the article on the front page next to the millage vote article. Parents do need to see the positive things happening in our schools to know the importance of community support.

Again, many thanks for a very well written article. The picture of Brandon was a prize in itself!

Award winner sends thanks

To The Editor:

Even though this "thank you" is a bit late, the surprise and the pleasure of being awarded the James J. Poplin Distinguished Service Award has not diminished in the least.

As if receiving the award wasn't enough, my wife and I were treated to an excellent dinner and thrown in for good measure the pleasant company of the members of the Wayne Recreation Advisory Board.

The good wishes of friends and neighbors were also an extra bonus. It almost seems a shame to accept such a beautiful plaque for something I enjoy doing so much.

The award, the dinner and the people we shared it with will be a part of a very happy memory.

It really is "great to live in Wayne."

Romulus is 'on the move'

To The Editor:

Romulus has, in the past five years, become a city on the move. As a result of the number of hotels and the apartment complex being built, our city has become more than just a little "country" town.

All of this construction is good for the city. But we need to remember that the land surrounding these buildings is just as important as the buildings.

The viewing experience of the traveler has definitely been overlooked in some areas. To enhance our city's landscape, we could do three basic things: provide pedestrians with colorful walkways, benches and drinking fountains; transform our parking areas into visual assets by aligning the facing street with hedges, trees or decorative lighting; establish a program in which new public and private buildings be devoted to the installation of plantings, lighting and fountains.

No. I feel they can have jails but not in the county.

No. The trouble in Wayne County is that they are so confused they don't know what they are doing.

Yes. They are crowded. I feel badly for police departments and the department of justice in that they don't have more support.

And then there were none. . . 'Last shot' ends Romulus district cage reign in overtime

By TOM MOORADIAN
ANP Staff Writer

Romulus apparently lives or dies with last second shots in district basketball play-offs.

For the last two years, the Eagles managed to survive and win district titles at Wayne Memorial with last second heroics.

But Friday night Coach Dan Henry and his Eagles died.

Trevor Wormly's three-point basket with eight seconds left lifted Taylor Truman to a 58-55 victory over the defending district champs in a cliffhanging and controversial overtime victory over Romulus.

The victory was Truman's ticket into this week's Class A regional championship to be staged at Eastern Michigan University. The loss brought the curtains down on the Eagles' cage year.

Close all the way, Romulus trailed 18-15 after the first eight minutes, but they managed to outscore their rivals 13-8 to take a narrow 28-26 lead at intermission. Truman came back to a one-point 39-38 advantage for three periods and, with both teams deciding to go for the percentage shots in the last quarter, Romulus managed to tie it up at 51-all at the end of regulation play.

In the overtime Kevin McKinnie gave Truman the edge 53-51, but Grayam Scott responded with a jumper that again knotted the score. After Taylor's Bobbie Robinson and Scott exchanged a pair of free throws, Willie Maull managed to steal the ball and was driving in for a easy Romulus layup when the officials called him back for a personal foul. He had apparently fouled during the theft.

"It was a poor call," said Henry. "It really was. I could not believe it."

Despite Henry's protests, the officials prevailed.

With 15 seconds to go, Romulus had another chance and Maull managed to sneak through the Truman defenses and was about to pass off when he was called for charging. That returned the ball to Taylor whose coach, Van Kostegian, called for a time out.

Taylor set up Wormly who found the range from about 20 feet out.

Scott, who turned in his best game, finished with 17 points, while teammates Maull and Brent Bonam each had 12. Taylor got 24 points from Wormly.

In the semifinals, Romulus continued to dominate the host,

Wayne, winning their third straight in post-season play, 61-49.

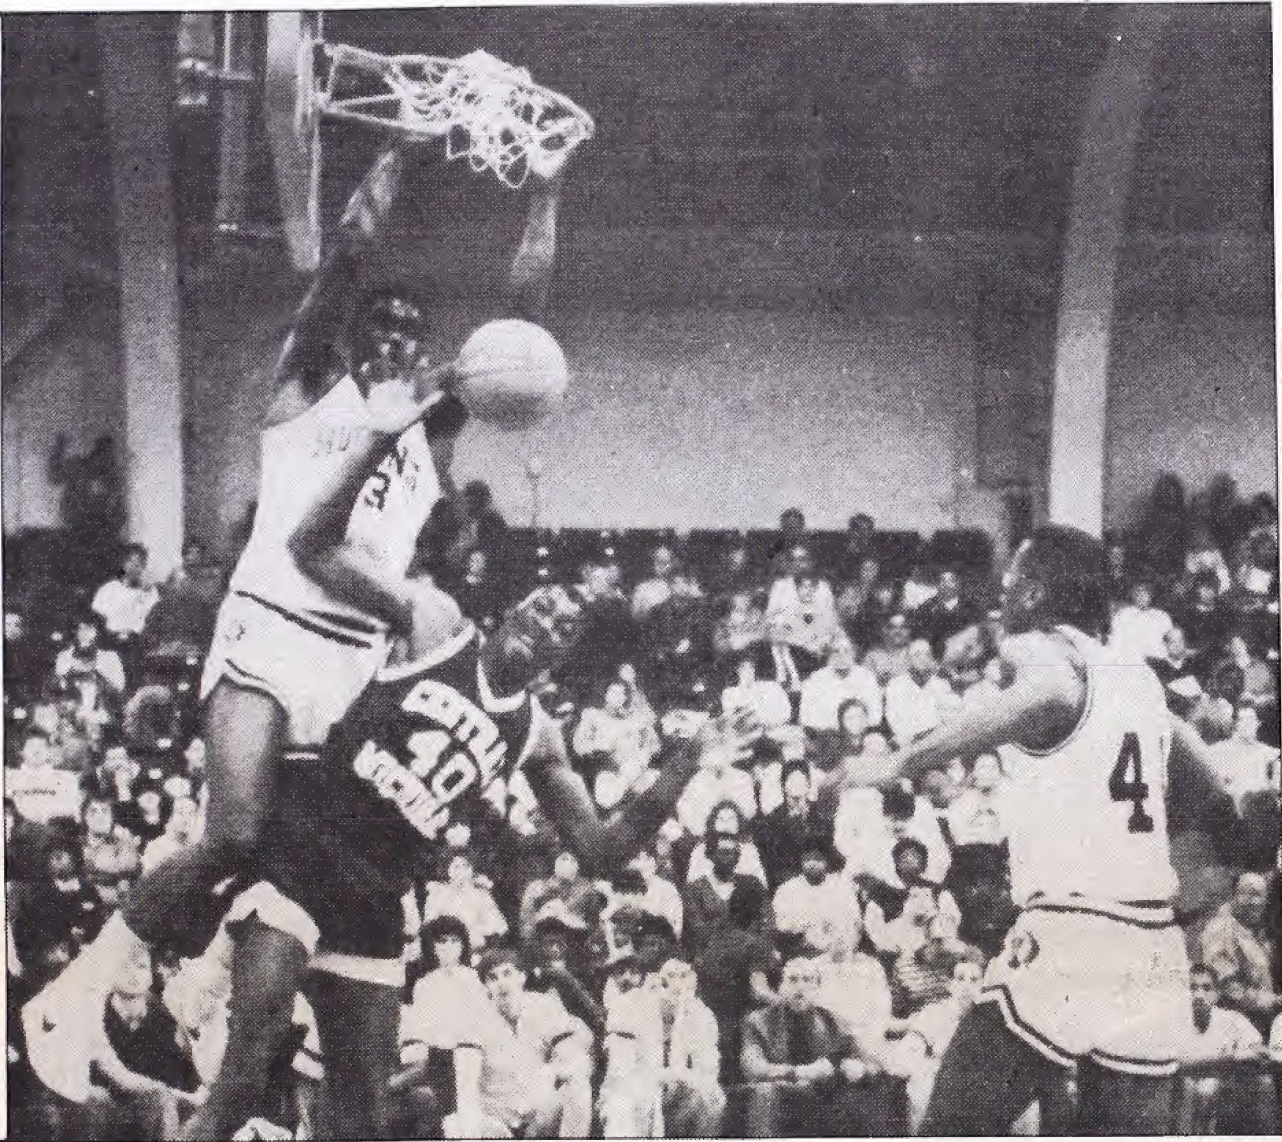

"We did everything we had to do to win," said Henry. "And I must say that we played our best game of the year. It was the first time this year that the kids put a whole game together."

Romulus held the upper hand at the end of the first eight minutes, 18-7, then outscored the Zebras 10-9 and 16-14 in the two middle periods.

Grant Long is MVP

Former Romulus High cage great Grant Long stuffs one into the basket en route to a sensational career at Eastern Michigan University. Long, a senior, who averaged 31 points in his last two games, led the Hurons to the MAC Conference title and a first-time appearance in the NCAA basketball play-offs. EMU will meet eighth nationally ranked Pittsburgh Friday afternoon in Lincoln, Nebraska. The Hurons, who have won 18 of their last 20 games, have piled up a 22-7 won-lost record with Long averaging 23.2 points per game. Grant is a nephew of another former Romulus cage great, Johnny Long, who went on to star for the University of Detroit and the Detroit Pistons before he was traded to the Indiana Pacers of the National Basketball Association.

Bishop Borgess ousts Inkster

By TOM MOORADIAN
ANP Staff Writer

The dream ended Saturday night for the Inkster Vikings and Coach George Thompson Jr.

State-ranked Bishop Borgess outmanned the Vikings in the finals of the Class B championship to claim the title and win a berth in the regional play-offs scheduled for this week at Eastern Michigan University.

"We just had too many things to overcome and weren't able to," said Thompson. "And when you play an excellent team like Borgess, you have to be at your best."

"We have had an up-and-down, roller-coaster type season. And I have to attribute that basically to injuries to key players. When we were all healthy, the team was tough; when we had injuries, we were vulnerable."

— George Thompson
Inkster Coach

Inkster got to the finals via easy victories over Redford Thurston (86-55) and Dearborn Heights Crestwood (91-46), while Borgess had a rough time with Robichaud, winning a three-point victory over the reigning Suburban Athletic Conference champs. Borgess also eliminated Dearborn Divine Child to set up the contest with the Vikings.

But, back to the Thurston - Inkster duel.

A 25-12 Viking scoring edge in the second period convinced the Chargers of Crestwood that they were no match for Inkster in the semifinal round. Inkster had pulled into a 18-9 first period lead and held an insurmountable 43-21 advantage over their rivals at the half. Inkster outscored the losers 20-13 and 28-12 in the final two frames of their contest.

Clearwood 6th in state in diving

By TOM MOORADIAN
ANP Staff Writer

For the first time in a decade, a Belleville diver has won a state medal.

Gordie Clearwood, a senior, put together a strong overall performance at the Class A state finals conducted over the weekend at Eastern Michigan University in Ypsilanti.

The veteran diver amassed 401.70 points that earned for him a sixth place medal and "all-state" recognition.

"He (Clearwood) was at his best," noted Belleville Coach Bill Snyder. "He remained poised under pressure and performed the best I have ever seen him."

Clearwood came off of a second place finish at the regional staged earlier in Brighton. His sixth-place finish at state provided the Tigers with nine points.

Belleville also finished 20th - their best overall finish - at the state finals. The state title was taken by Ann Arbor Huron swimmers.

The Tigers also received a seventh place finish from senior Mike Ackron who won the consolation finals of the 100-yard breaststroke event in a 1:00.79. Incidentally, Ackron's time was the fifth best posted in the state this year and established a school record.

Belleville also was represented at state with their medley relay team and by freestyler, Eric Snyder. Snyder turned in a 49.30 in the 100-yard freestyle, a personal best. And the Tiger medley relay team of Bryan Bogardus, Ackron, Martin Duda and Snyder also set a new school record with its 1:40.31 clocking.

Bogardus, a sophomore, and Snyder, a junior, will be returning to the Tiger lineup a year from now to form the nucleus of what the Belleville coach hopes will be another winning team.

"If we had been able to shave just a few seconds off of some of our times during the end of the season, I believe we would have won the conference (Wolverine) championship," said Snyder pointed out. "But, we will have some key swimmers coming back a year from now and I believe we should be very competitive then."

Belleville brought the curtains down to a 7-1 (losing only to league champ, Monroe) conference season and a 10-2 overall year.

Airport ends Huron season

By TOM MOORADIAN
ANP Staff Writer

Although they were in striking distance several times, New Boston Huron couldn't muster enough scoring power to stop league rival Airport and high-scoring Chuck Collett last week.

With the 6-0 senior Collett setting a career-high 44 points, Airport eliminated Coach Larry Swick's Chiefs in the first round of the Class B district play-offs, 84-60.

The loss brought the curtains down on a Huron 5-15 basketball season.

"We were in striking distance several times," Swick explained. "Unfortunately we would lose the momentum and this Collett kid was just too hot to stop. He'd come up with those crucial baskets that would kill us."

Huron gave Airport the three-point range, and Collett took advantage. He hit on five of seven of them and also made 11 of 18 from the foul line to lift his team into the semifinals.

Huron managed to eke out a

Truman bursts Tiger bubble

By TOM MOORADIAN
ANP Staff Writer

It just wasn't to be. Playing some of its best ball of the 1987-88 campaign, Belleville came up a basket short against Taylor Truman and was ousted in the semifinal round of the Class A district playoffs staged last Wednesday at Wayne Memorial.

"Sure, I am disappointed," said first-year coach Michael Garland after the Tigers dropped a season-ending 65-64 decision to the Eagles. "Defensively we didn't get the job done. We played in spurts and anyone will tell you that that can be fatal."

Belleville also blew a 10-point bulge late in the game. In fact, with 3:30 remaining it looked as if the Tigers would make it to the finals to take on neighboring rival, Romulus. (Romulus eventually handed over its district crown to Truman in overtime.)

Belleville worked up a 20-17 first period advantage as Maurice Brantley had little difficulty finding the range. Before he was through with the Taylor quintet, Brantley had a game-high 28 points.

Garland's Tigers continued to maintain their slim and precarious lead throughout the entire first half, walking off the court at halftime with a 37-30 margin.

But Van Kostegian's chargers refused to buckle. They outscored their rivals 17-13 and 18-14 in the final two periods to earn a shot at Romulus and the district title. Truman will advance to the regional playoffs to play Plymouth Canton in the first round at Eastern Michigan University.

"Our defense, especially our transition game, was horrendous. It killed us," Garland moaned.

The Tigers' performance at the free throw line was also a crucial factor. They canned 18 of 31 - and they were warned that free throws could determine the outcome of the game.

Brantley wound up an outstanding season with 10 field goals and seven of 12 from the free throw line for a game-high

Romulus honors wrestlers

Eagles win their first league title

Romulus High's outstanding varsity wrestling team received post-season recognition as the board of education unanimously approved a resolution commending Coach Wayne Schimming and his grapplers.

In their inaugural season in the tough South Central Conference, Romulus captured the conference championship. The Eagles also amassed an overall 12-2 record. The team produced a state champ in 98-pounder Tony Venturini and a fourth-place state finisher in heavyweight Paul Nowicki. In the resolution approved by the school board, it was noted that Coach Schimming and the Eagles have performed "in an outstanding manner by dedicating themselves to excellence and...won the conference title in a dominating fashion scoring 60 more points than their closest rival," thereby, becoming the first Romulus varsity team to win a championship in the school's new conference.

The resolution further noted that, "Coach Schimming has given unstintingly of his time and effort in directing his team: Bruce Boyd, Rick Champagne, Dennis Corder, Brian Farnan, Don DuFore, Ralph Farrell, David Gehringer, Greg Grizzle, Tim Kosikowski, Scott Murovski, Paul Nowicki, Randy Rhoden and Tony Venturini."

The resolution concluded that "Coach Wayne Schimming and the 1988 Eagles Wrestling Team accept the Romulus Community Schools' Board of Education's "thanks" for their performance and best wishes for their future."

28 points. Teammate Al Tilman contributed 10 points, the only other Tiger to hit in double figures.

Truman received a stellar individual effort out of Marshal Newsome who had a team high 20 points. But it was Trevor Wormly who stole the show and the game away from the Tigers. Wormly erupted for eight of his 14 points in the last eight minutes of the contest to seal the victory and open the door to the championship game.

Belleville ended the season with a 9-5 conference record to provide it with a third place finish in the Wolverine 'A' Conference. They were 12-9 overall.

"I felt that we could have been a bit better than we were," Garland said in analyzing his first season as head coach. "But there were some early injuries that proved costly. Overall, however, I felt this was a year that we could build our program.

"I really am looking forward to next year," Garland said.

THE PLYMOUTH-CANTON Cruisers swim team defeated the Ypsilanti Otters, 465-329, in the first meet of the season. In the second meet of the season, the Cruisers defeated the Belleville swim team, winning every event. The team consists of boys and girls, age 8 to 14, and it is part of the Plymouth-Canton Continuing Education Program.

THE PLYMOUTH MIDGET "B" hockey team defeated the Warren Flames March 6, winning the state hockey championship for the Midget "B" division. Kevin Gilmore slapped in the winning goal in overtime to clinch the championship. Omnicon of Michigan Inc. taped four of the five games in which the team competed during the tournament. Check local cable channel listings for dates and times of the game coverage.

THE VAN BUREN "Typhoons" recently captured first place in the under 9 division at the Canton Soccerdome. The team posted a 7-0-1 record in the win-loss-tie column, scored 84 goals and allowed only 14. Members of the championship team include: Tate Travis, Andy Neal, Zach Wilkinson, Kevin Pych, Jason Bennett, Ryan Allen, Jason Viers, Ryan Szyndlar, Michael Gasser, Ryan McGinnis, Chris Walls, Lane Lancaster, Michael Cischke, Josh Buhro and Matthew LaVaute. The coaches were Dale Travis and Rick Viers. They were sponsored by Belleville companies Dingman Electric and J and L Engineering.

REGISTRATION FOR THE Wayne-Westland YMCA spring soccer league is now under way at the YMCA, located at 827 S. Wayne Road. The league is opened to all boys and girls ages 5 to 12. Registration ends April 15.

THE MICHIGAN WRESTLING Club invites all high school and former college wrestlers in the area to train at Schoolcraft College from 8:30 to 10 p.m. each Monday, Wednesday and Friday. Call John Wood at 397-1776 for details.

MEN'S RECREATION NIGHT basketball, sponsored by the Canton Parks and Recreation Department, will begin Wednesday, March 23 at Eriksson Elementary School. The program will feature 10 weeks of basketball from 6:45 to 9:45 p.m. every Wednesday. Cost will be $10. Call 397-5110 for more details.

GERALD CLARK, OF Westland, scored five points for the Northern Michigan University men's basketball team March 1, in a season-ending, 87-81 loss to Wisconsin-Milwaukee. Clark was the team fifth leading scorer on the team, with 267 points. He also led the team in assists with 155 and recorded 28 steals.

THE ROMULUS RECREATION Youth Basketball program had 15 participants who took part in the Easter Seals Shoot-a-thon. The event generated $890 and was sponsored by Tubby's Submarine Shop. The proceeds went to the Easter Seals Society. The participants included: Jesse Warren, Larry Poletti, Jaime Luczak, Sean Dick, Aimee Jager, Alford Sample, Steven Koths, Nicklaus Locklear, Shanna Welch, Henry Alexander, Amy Young, Mike Hatfield, Scottie Schulte, Kristi Hardwick and Carla Wright.

ASK DR. MARK

WISDOM TEETH

In prehistoric times, extra teeth—the wisdom teeth—were necessary for humans to consume their rough diets. Today, they are no longer necessary. In centuries to come, scientists believe, the evolutionary process will probably phase out wisdom teeth entirely because they are no longer necessary for survival. Unfortunately, we won't be around when and if this happens, so we must deal with wisdom teeth and the problems they sometimes cause.

Many people believe that wisdom teeth should be routinely extracted before maturity. Fact is, they don't have to be removed unless their presence is likely to lead to oral problems or, unless problems have already developed. This may include:

• Decaying wisdom teeth because they were never properly brushed.

• Wisdom teeth which have grown in only partially, resulting in infected gums.

• Wisdom teeth which have become impacted against bone, creating pain and pressure.

Checking the status of wisdom teeth is an important part of regular dental examination.

Brought to you as a community service by Dr. Neri P. Mark, Inkster Dental Center, 3817 Inkster Road, Inkster, MI PH 747-7100.

THE LAND OF THE IRISH

Local politics, business have Irish representation

By BARBARA ALBERT
ANP Staff Writer

Just how prevalent are the Irish folk in western Wayne County? Take a look at a mayor, a councilman and two business leaders to find out.

Sure, there are the Jones, the Smiths and the Browns on almost every street in the area. But it is the O'Neils, the Nortons, the Naughtons and the Reilleys who have added a bit of the Irish brogue to the local vocabulary and good cheer to those who speak it.

Patrick O'Neil

Patrick O'Neil believes almost every Irish saying passed on to him. Then again, why shouldn't he? The Irish never lie.

O'Neil is convinced that scientists have over-reacted about the vernal equinox and the first day of spring. As far as he is concerned, St. Patrick's Day marks the beginning of the season.

O'Neil's grandfather was born in the northern part of Ireland. His grandfather, the youngest of 15 children, came to Canada in the early part of the 19th century and later moved to the Upper Peninsula. There, he worked as a lumberjack and, later, ran a lumber camp.

O'Neil is a member of the Inkster City Council and an attorney in his spare time.

Getting through law school must have been difficult if O'Neil believes the saying that the Irish don't let the facts interfere with logic.

O'Neil has visited Ireland twice. The first time, he traveled through northern Ireland and was shocked by the violence.

"When I turned 21 and started going to Irish bars, they were taking up collections for the IRA," he said. "I found I couldn't give them money because I didn't agree with their methods."

O'Neil said the people of Ireland are very pleasant and easy going. He thinks the Irish could be very powerful. If it weren't for one downfall, that is.

"I was told that God created alcohol to keep the Irish from conquering the world," O'Neil said.

The St. Patrick's Day celebration began several weeks ago for O'Neil. He has been visiting and partying with his Irish friends, and there will be a big party on the big day.

"I'm sure I won't be in any condition to work on Friday," O'Neil said.

The city councilman said he will certainly find some green to wear and, yes, he does down a few green beers in honor of St. Patrick.

Patrick J. Norton

Pat Norton, the mayor of Wayne, is about as "true green" as one can be.

Norton, "Paddy" to his friends, is the son of Irish im-

1 in 5 area residents can claim to be Irish

By BARBARA ALBERT
ANP Staff Writer

March 17 is not just any other day. Especially to those of Irish descent and those who claim to be Irish in order to justify a celebration.

But the claims of being Irish might just be more the truth than a myth. Especially in western Wayne County, where statistics show that about 20 percent of the residents can legitimately make claim to an Irish heritage.

According to the 1980 census, nearly 42,500 people of Irish descent live in the cities of Wayne, Westland, Romulus, Inkster and Canton (figures were not available for Belleville). Nearly 8,000 of these claim to be entirely of Irish blood. The other 34,500 are of combined ancestry.

Wayne and Westland have the largest percentages of Irish citizens, according to the census. The population of Wayne is 26 percent Irish, and 25 percent of the population of Westland claim some Irish background. The make-up of other cities is: Canton, 16 percent Irish; Romulus, 15 percent and Inkster 11 percent.

Industry and family brought many Irish emigrants to the Detroit area, according to some Irish living here. After the Irish revolution, jobs were scarce on the "Green Isle." Many young men and women went out in search of work.

Men came to the Detroit area to work in the large industries, according to Patrick Norton, the Irish mayor of Wayne, who has long studied his native folk. Women, like Norton's mother and aunts, came to the Detroit area to work as domestics in the homes of auto companies' executives.

Some already had family members in the U.S. and came to join them.

From 1949 to 1955, there was a mass emigration of Irish to the United States.

The Irish community in Wayne County remains united through the Irish-American Club, in Detroit, and the Western Wayne County Irish Society.

But one can almost bet that shamrocks will grace the lapels of even the nonmembers of the two groups, just as green beer will be the beverage of choice for people of all national origins.

And just who is this St. Paddy guy (spell it with two d's, the Irish folks will politely ask)?

The Irish honor St. Patrick, the patron saint of Ireland, for introducing Christianity in the fifth century. At least that is why they are supposed to celebrate the day.

The Irish also have some less factual beliefs about St. Patrick.

Norton said he was taught that St. Patrick made a deal with God to ensure that all Irish went to heaven. There are also tales of St. Patrick waiting at the gates of heaven to lead the Irish through.

While the whole world celebrates St. Patrick's Day, the non-Irish celebrate as vigorously as the Irish themselves.

Those who have visited Ireland describe it as a peaceful and relaxed place with friendly inhabitants.

For a country that seems so peaceful, however, the Irish have had their share of unrest. Norton said it is amazing that through all the turmoil, the Irish remain spirited and loyal.

The Irish have long stood by Catholicism and fought efforts by the British to set up an Anglican church on the Green Isle. Today, in northern Ireland, differences about religion continue to explode into terrorist attacks and uprisings.

The population of Ireland, according to most references, was about 8.5 million in 1845. About a century later, the population was cut in half. The potato famine, lasting from 1845 to 1848, is one reason cited in the population decline.

Patrick O'Neil, a city councilman in Inkster, has visited his Irish land of heritage twice. He also will be joining in the celebration of the green tomorrow - to the point that "I'm sure I won't be in any condition to work on Friday." ANP photo by Ann Grimes/staff photographer

Celebration: Many special events staged in honor of St. Paddy

By BARBARA ALBERT
ANP Staff Writer

If you have not yet made plans for St. Patrick's Day, you better hurry. The annual day of celebration for St. Paddy is upon us.

Many Irish began their celebrating last weekend, with parties at the Irish-American Club and the big parade in downtown Detroit.

The truly dedicated Irish, however, will have been celebrating throughout the week and will continue to do so right through next weekend.

There are plenty of bars in the area that will offer green beer specials and tunes from the "Emerald Isle," but there is one tradition the real Irish will not ignore.

To honor St. Patrick, most Irish will make it a point to attend a special St. Patrick's Day mass. Almost all Catholic churches will have a mass on St. Paddy's Day, but one church is sure to be packed to the gills.

Most Holy Trinity Church, at Porter and Sixth streets, in Detroit, will honor St. Patrick on March 17 with a special mass.

Most Holy Trinity is the first Detroit English-speaking Catholic parish built by the Irish. It is more than 150 years old.

Those truly of a mind to pay tribute to the Emerald Isle will gather at noon for the traditional "Sharin' O' the Green" mass. The name refers to the collection taken up to assist those who come to the church for help, according to the Rev. Jay Samonie, pastor of the church.

Those who go year after year recommend an early arrival.

There are still plenty of other ways to celebrate St. Paddy's Day.

• Pat Norton, the mayor of Wayne, will pass out several hundreds of carnations in honor of St. Patrick's Day. This is not a standard Irish custom, however.

Some activities are just for fun, others will profit charitable organizations.

• The Juvenile Diabetes Foundation, Southwest Suburban Detroit Chapter, will host a St. Patrick's Day party and raffle to benefit research programs. The party will begin at 7:30 p.m. March 17 at the First Presbyterian Church, Dearborn.

• Westland businesses will support the "Shamrocks Against Dystrophy" program for the Muscular Dystrophy Association. Patrons can purchase a shamrock at participating businesses for $1.

There are also programs just to relax and celebrate the Irish way. Many singles groups will be using the holiday as a way for people to get to know one another.

• The Downriver Catholic Singles will sponsor a dance March 19 at St. Paschal's Catholic Church, Taylor. The Westside Singles II will host a dance March 18 at the Livonia Elks Lodge.

For those really wanting to get away, the Grand Traverse Resort is offering a "Luck O' The Irish Weekend" March 18 through 20. The package includes Irish music, drinks and accommodations for the weekend.

Be sure to bring plenty of the green to that one . . .

A message from Oakwood's Cardiology Center

Four weeks ago, Charlie Mitchell thought his playing days were over

Charlie was lucky. Because when his heart attack occurred, his teammates recognized the symptoms and immediately rushed him to Oakwood Hospital's Emergency Room. Their quick response and Oakwood's fully equipped, 24-hour emergency room are two factors in Charlie's speedy recovery.

Many people wait too long before seeking medical treatment.

A delay can cause additional damage to the heart...even death. Oakwood Hospital is just minutes away, and we can do a world of good. For 30 years, Oakwood's cardiologists have been dedicated to the treatment of cardiovascular disease. Our treatment capabilities are state of the art, ranging from drug therapy to the latest surgical techniques. Treatment options include the use of anticoagulant drugs — like streptokinase — that destroy blood clots in the arteries.

But, because everyone is different, the treatment is determined on a patient-by-patient basis. And Oakwood's cardiology experts individualize the care each patient receives as well as the treatment program.

Oakwood is also devoted to the patient's follow-up care, with education courses and monitoring that help lead patients back to full, active lives even after a heart attack.

So don't delay.

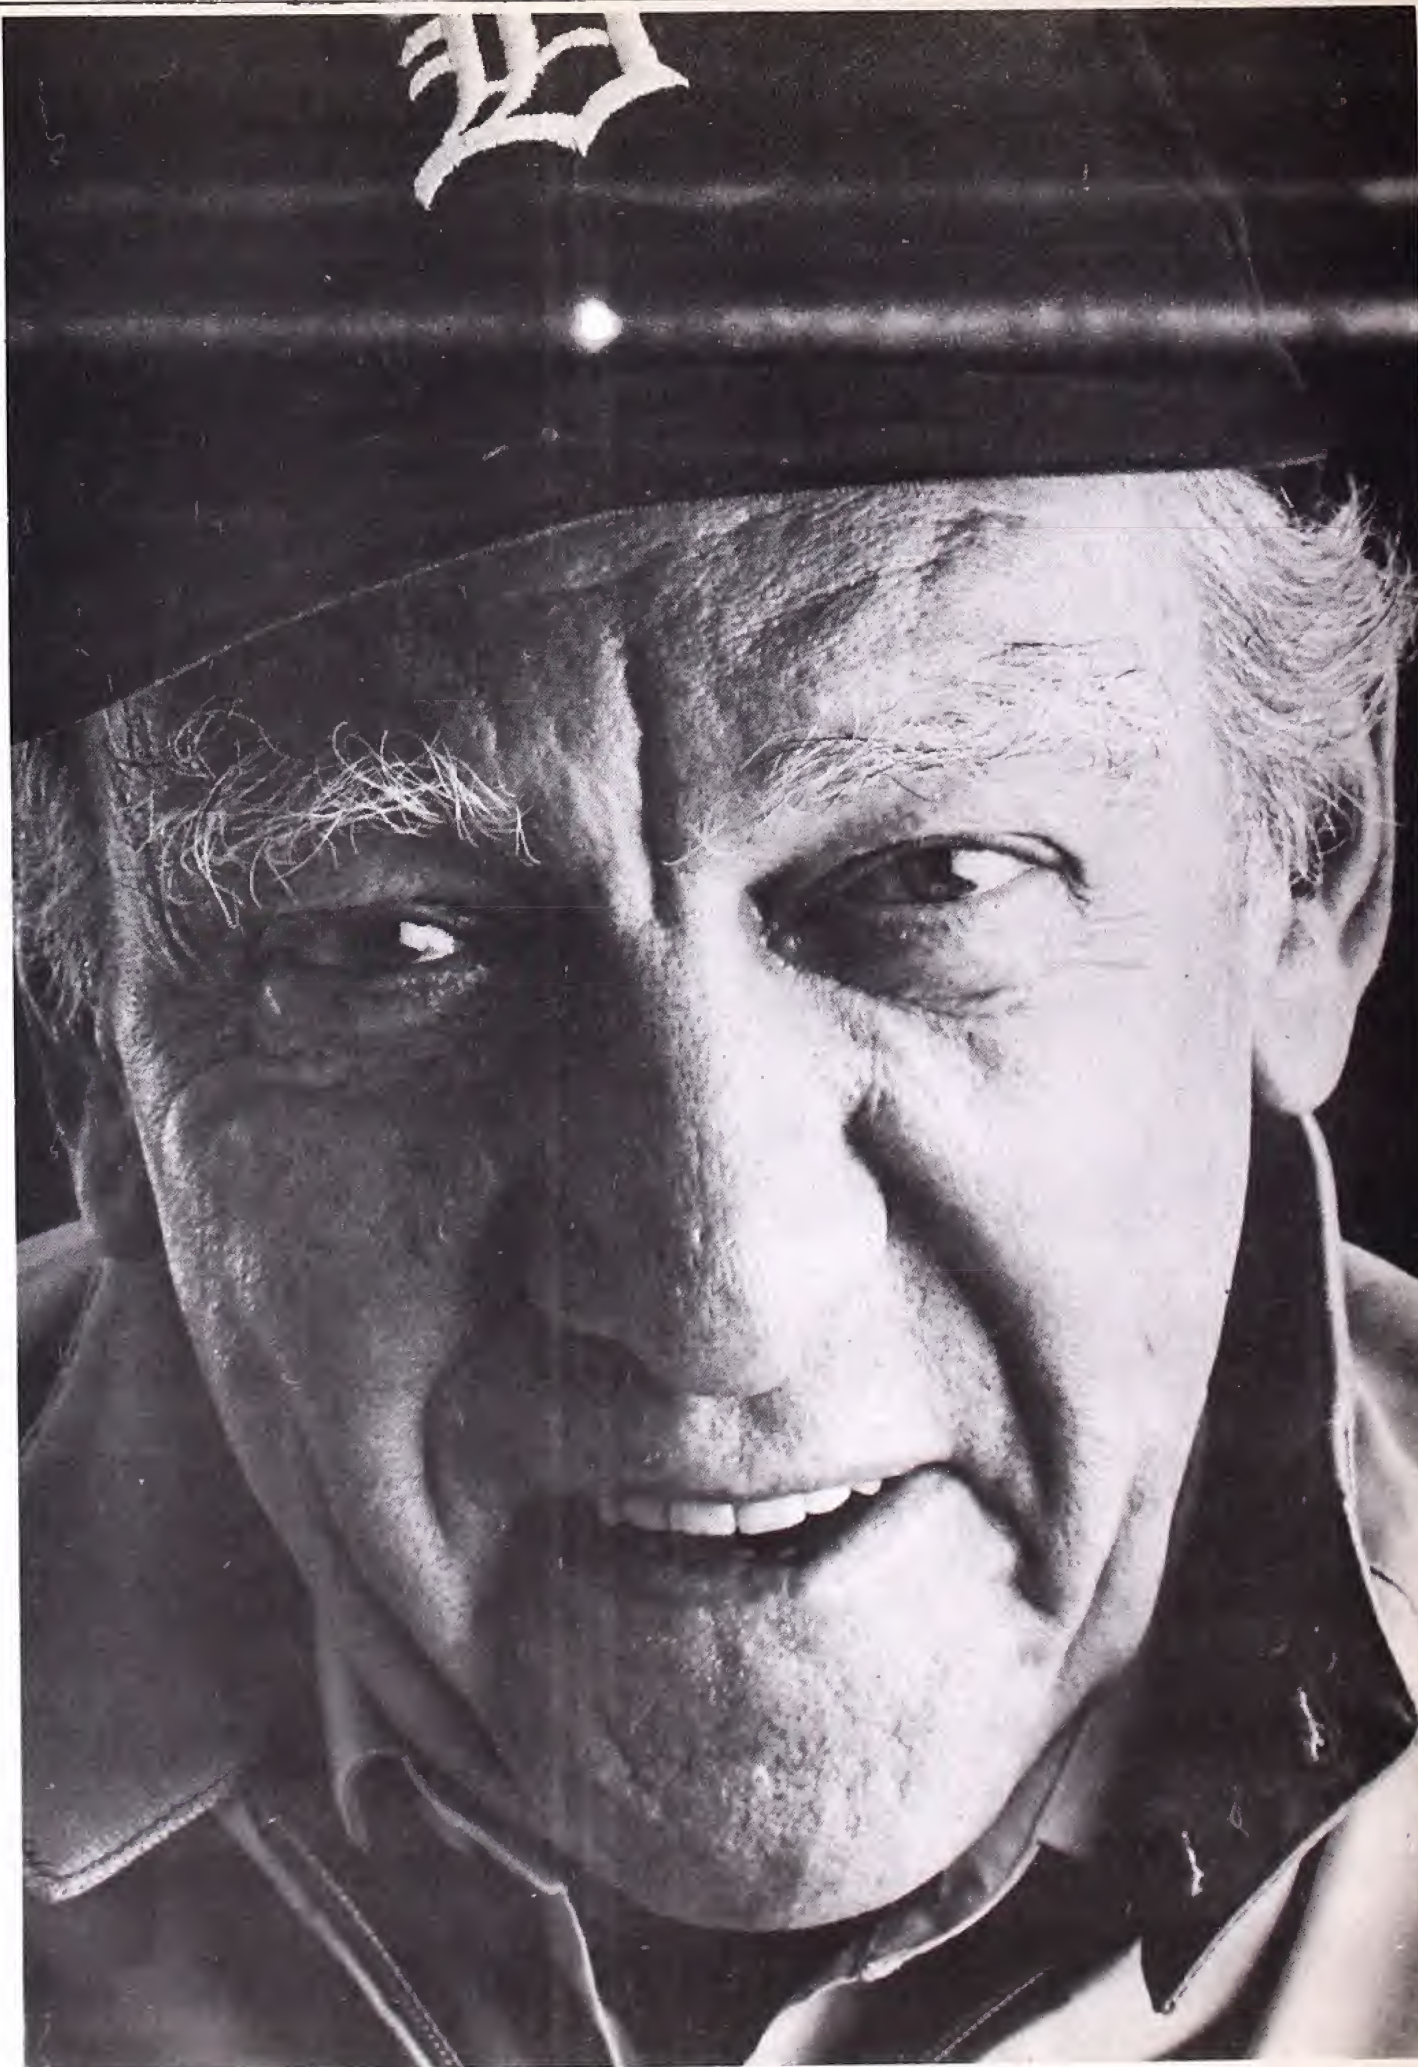

Call 1-800-543-WELL for more information or the name of a physician on the staff of Oakwood Hospital.

Celebrate St. Paddy's with taste

just desserts

A very dear Irish friend of mine once explained the reason his fellow countrymen drink such copious amounts of liquor. He claimed it was because Irish food is so bad natives are forced to drink plenty of liquor to wash it down. Hey, he said it, not me.

That may be blarney, but finding a good Irish recipe to mark the celebration of the banishing of the snakes from the country by dear old St. Patrick wasn't easy. And then there was the time constraint...after all, the holiday is tomorrow and finding an Irish dessert made quickly wasn't any task for an amateur, especially if taste were any criteria.

Success came in the form of this Irish Whiskey Cake made famous by the pastry chef at the Grand Hotel on Mackinac Island. And the success was tempered somewhat by the requirement that this cake "mellow" for 12 hours. With the amount of alcohol used, one can understand why. The cake is based on a traditional Irish recipe, and is served all summer long to the delight of hotel guests of all nationalities.

A disclaimer, of sorts, must accompany these directions. Cake mixes and instant pudding were certainly not in the original recipe for this treat, but without them the confection takes as long as the celebration itself. Therefore, the shortcuts have been included.

It is, however, worth a try.

IRISH WHISKEY CAKE

- 1 package (18 1/2 ounces) yellow cake mix
- 8 ounces vanilla instant pudding mix
- 1/2 cup milk
- 1/2 cup corn oil
- 1 cup Irish whiskey
- 4 large eggs
- 4 1/2 ounces (about 1 cup) crushed or coarsely ground black walnuts

Preheat the oven to 325 degrees and grease and flour a bundt-style pan.

Blend together the cake mix and the pudding mix. In another bowl, mix the milk, oil and whiskey. Mix these liquids into the cake and pudding mixture, incorporate well. Beat in eggs one at a time, scraping down the sides of the bowl. Mix two minutes at medium speed until the mixture is smooth. Stir in the walnuts. Turn the batter into the prepared bundt pan. Bake at 325 degrees for 1 1/2 hours or until the cake is lightly browned and a toothpick comes out clean.

Pour glaze over hot cake in pan and then cool on a rack for an hour. Turn the cake onto a serving platter and let cool completely. Let the cake mellow for at least 12 hours. When storing the cake, leave it upside down and covered in the pan. If you are storing the cake for some time, turn it every two or three days to distribute the whiskey evenly. It will keep almost forever.

Glaze:

- 1 stick sweet butter (unsalted)
- 1 cup sugar
- 1 tablespoon water
- 1 cup Irish whiskey, or to taste

Melt the butter in a saucepan. Add the sugar, water and 1 Tablespoon whiskey. Bring to a light boil. Simmer for 10 minutes. Remove the saucepan from the heat and let cool for three minutes. Stir in the remaining whiskey.

PACK YOURSELF A

PUNCH IN THE LUNCH

By Beth Sundrla

How can you add an extra "punch" to that same, old, ordinary lunch? It's a dilemma everyone faces.

Cynthia Bastion, cafeteria manager at Field Elementary School, in Canton Township, answers that question every day for about 400 people.

"I absolutely love to cook," Bastion said on Friday, while frantically trying to get lunch together for 500 people for "Tropical Day" at the school.

"I even go home after this and love to cook big meals," she said. "I should have been a home economics teacher."

But Bastion wasn't always in charge of the Field Elementary School cafeteria. She had worked as a library aide and, eventually, moved into the kitchen.

After 10 years at Field, Bastion knows that children are her best customers. Her biggest tip for trying to please young people who can be picky eaters is "listen."

"Today's students are different than we were when I went to school," she said. "Students have access to fast foods, and marketing even in the school cafeteria is a big thing."

In the old days, all students were served one type of lunch, with no choices. Today, students have a choice, she explained.

One of the popular lunch choices are the chicken filet pieces modeled after the McDonald's brand McNuggets. At Field, the nuggets are called Chicken McField.

Bastion said where many people make a mistake trying to please children is remembering what they liked when they were kids.

"Today's kids don't like the same things," Bastion explained.

Students at Field Elementary aren't picky. They like to try a variety of foods and have even requested spinach, Bastion said.

Lunch preparations begin at Field at about 7:30 a.m. The biggest challenge to the job, Bastion said, is making sure the food is ready on time.

"Because this is such a big school, we feel the pressure. The biggest challenge is serving 400 little kids that don't really know what they want for lunch," she said.

Bastion also faces a challenge when it comes to ordering. She ordered boxes of ice cream that were to contain 96 ice cream desserts. But, when they arrived, each box only contained 72.

She had to call around to have enough for each child.

Bastion was trained for the job at the Wayne County Intermediate School District offices, in Wayne, and has also taken sanitation classes offered by the Marriott Corp. Marriott also manages the cafeteria program in Field Elementary School.

Bastion said her mother is a good cook, and that helped keep cooking an interesting part of her life.

"It's funny. When you're a kid, you don't appreciate your mom cooking. Then when you grow up, you realize how much work it was," she said.

Bastion still has the energy to cook when she leaves the

Here are a few of the secrets that will help keep "Bastion's restaurant" open for many years down the road.

BROCCOLI CHEESE SOUP

- 2 pounds frozen chopped broccoli
- 1/4 cup minced onion
- 1 teaspoon chicken bouillon
- 4 ounces processed cheese - not cheddar
- 1/4 cup butter
- 1/4 cup corn starch
- 1 quart whole milk
- 1 quart water

oil and water together and add to dry ingredients. Mix by hand until smooth.

Pour into 9-inch-by-9-inch baking pan or 8-inch, round pan that has been sprayed with non-stick spray. Bake at 350 degrees for 25 minutes.

Sprinkle with confectioner's sugar, frost with icing or eat plain.

CHOCOLATE CHIP COOKIES

- 12 quarts of flour
- 7 tablespoons of baking soda
- 7 tablespoons of salt
- 10 pounds butter
- 3 quarts plus 3 cups brown sugar

No matter what is on the outside of the lunch container - Care Bears, Moon Dreamers, the Empire Strikes Back or Alf - what is on the inside is what is important.

cafeteria and recommends that new cooks read lots of cookbooks.

"I'm a recipe person. I read recipe books like other people read novels," she said.

Her desire to obtain new recipes even meant a trip from Canton Township to a store located at Orchard Lake and 16 Mile roads. The book wasn't available locally, she said.

Bastion plans the menu Monday through Friday at Field Elementary. But she also takes suggestions from the children.

Under government guidelines, she must serve 2 ounces of protein in each meal.

Some popular lunches with the children are casseroles, lasagna, sloppy joes and even the old standbys, such as hot dogs and hamburgers.

Grape juice is also a big seller.

"Children are our customers," she said. "If you don't

Cook broccoli in small amount of water until soft. In separate large pot, melt butter and stir in corn starch until well blended. Add chicken bouillon with onion and slowly stir in milk and water.

Add drained broccoli and cheese (Velveeta or American). Add drained, finely chopped broccoli.

FIELD SCHOOL'S WACKY CAKE

- 1 1/2 cup flour
- 3 tablespoons cocoa
- 1 cup sugar
- 1 teaspoon baking soda
- 1/2 teaspoon salt
- 1 tablespoon vinegar
- 1/2 cup oil
- 1 teaspoon vanilla
- 1 cup cold water

Stir dry ingredients together until well mixed. Mix vinegar.

- 3 quarts plus 3 cups white sugar
- 7 tablespoons vanilla
- 3 quarts plus 1 teaspoon water
- 40 eggs
- 10 quarts of chocolate chips
- 10 quarts of nuts

Cream butter, sugars, vanilla and water together. Blend in eggs, add dry ingredients, blend. Add chocolate chips and nuts. Drop by teaspoonful on cookie sheets. Bake 12 minutes at 350 degrees. Serves 525 people.

LASAGNA

- 1 pound 2 ounces chopped onion
- 4 ounces vegetable oil
- 5 pounds tomato puree
- 3 pounds 8 ounces tomato paste
- 1 3/4 ounces sugar
- 5 1/4 ounces salt
- 1 teaspoon garlic powder

- 3 quarts of water
- 10 pounds of ground beef
- 2 ounces salt
- 1 teaspoon pepper
- 10 pounds sliced mozzarella cheese
- 5 pounds of lasagna noodles

Cook onion in oil until transparent. Combine puree, onion, paste, sugar, salt, garlic powder and water in sauce pan and simmer.

Brown ground beef and season with salt and pepper. Drain off grease. Add to simmering mixture.

Put 2 cups of the meat mixture on bottom of 12-inch by 20-inch pan. Then put layer of uncooked noodles, 2 cups of sauce, layer of cheese into pan. Repeat until all ingredients are used up, should make three layers.

Cover pan tightly with aluminum foil and refrigerate overnight. Bake the next day at 350 degrees for one hour. Let stand 20 minutes before cutting into squares. Makes 130 servings.

BEEF STEW

- 50 pounds ground beef
- 1/4 cup beef bouillon
- 1 gallon water
- 1/2 cup kitchen bouquet
- 2 cups cornstarch
- 52 pounds stew vegetables

Brown ground beef, drain off grease. Add bouillon, water, kitchen bouquet to make gravy darker and cornstarch paste to make gravy thicker. Add in vegetables. Put in oven for 45 minutes at 350 degrees. Serves 200 people.

RICE KRISPIES SQUARES

- 5 pounds marshmallows
- 5 large boxes of Rice Krispies
- 2 pounds melted butter

Melt butter and stir in marshmallows. Heat until marshmallows are melted. Add Rice Krispies and stir quickly before mixture sets up. Smooth out on cookie sheet; let cool. Cut into squares. Makes 200 squares. Optional: Add 4 pounds of chocolate chips with Rice Krispies.

migrants. Today, Norton is proud to pass on the stories his parents shared with him.

Norton's mother came to the Detroit area in 1927 to work as a domestic. She met Norton's father in the U.S. He was on his way to Australia. The two eventually married.

When Norton's mother became pregnant with his older sister, the couple returned to Ireland, where there was still national insurance to help defray the cost. They later returned to America.

Before coming to the United States, both of Norton's parents fought in the Irish revolution. Both received medals from the president of Ireland for their efforts during battle. "My parents were members of the IRA," Norton said. "The IRA they belonged to was much different from the IRA of today."

Norton has visited Ireland at least four times in the past six or seven years.

He said the lifestyle of the Irish is much more relaxed than ours, and the people have a great deal of national pride. He said their behavior is remarkable, considering the ongoing, national turmoil.

"It's a wonderful place if you have a feel for the Irish," Norton said.

When he visits the country, Norton said he is always mistaken for being Irish-born.

"When I start talking with the people, I often break into an Irish brogue," he said.

Norton attributes this to the fact that his mother and father both spoke with a brogue.

Patrick Naughton

From the county of Roscommon, in central Ireland, there comes a gentleman with a twinkle in his eye and a spring in his step.

Patrick Naughton is a native of Ireland, and everyone in his neighborhood knows it. Naughton has decorated his front porch with green shamrocks and a windsock in the colors of the Irish flag.

He left Ireland in 1950, at the age of 17. He came to the Detroit area with his uncle, who was working in real estate. Shortly after he arrived in the United States, his uncle died.

The General Motors worker said he was excited about coming to a new country and didn't feel at all out of place.

Naughton's grandfather was an Irish-born, American citizen. He came to the United States and lived in California, before returning to Ireland.

Naughton is a living contradiction to the rumor that the Irish drink a lot. He said he drinks very little and will celebrate St. Patrick's Day with the Pioneer Total Abstinence group. Pioneers are Irish who pledge not to drink and not to talk about Irish who do.

However, he does agree that the Irish know how to relax and have a good party. In fact, his wife is opening a new party supply store in Canton Township.

Joe Reilly

Joe Reilly came to the United States in 1963. But he still has roots on the "Emerald Isle."

Reilly, a coordinator for the United Auto Workers, was born in Northern Ireland. His brothers and sisters still live there. His parents are deceased.

He returns to his hometown about twice a year to visit family and friends.

Reilly, a Canton Township resident, was one of a few Catholics living in County Tyrone. When he left his hometown, it was difficult for Catholics to find work there.

He emphasizes that the battles between the Protestants and the Catholics is not so much a religious one but a political one.

"It is somewhat easier now (to be a Catholic in Northern Ireland), but it is still a handicap," he said.

Reilly visited England for a while and traveled with the merchant marines. He came to Connecticut in 1963 to look for a job and, in 1980, moved to Canton.

St. Paddy's Day will be a week-long celebration for Reilly. It will start with the parade downtown and continue throughout the week.

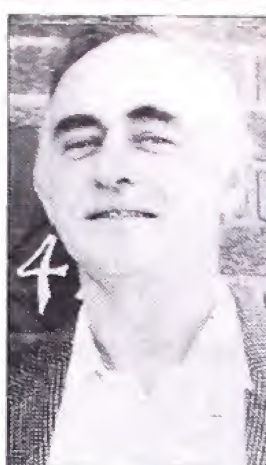

He will have to break one longstanding tradition, however.

Reilly said he always makes a point of not working on St. Patrick's Day. This year, however, an appointment slid by before he realized it was on March 17.

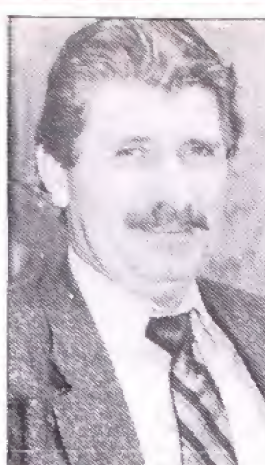

Nevertheless, he will be heading home early that day.

Pat Norton (above) was once told that there are no bad things to say about the Irish.

Patrick Naughton (above) is a living contradiction of one popular Irish tradition — he does not drink.

Joe Reilly (above) tries to keep in touch with Irish folks in the area by visiting bars and friends.

What is a CATARACT?

Inside the eye is a lens which focuses light rays and directs them on to the retina. If that lens becomes cloudy or opaque, thus blocking or limiting those light rays from focusing properly and completely, a cataract is probably present.

The majority of all cataracts are a result of the aging process, and appear primarily in persons 55 and older. Injuries from perforating foreign bodies, electrocution or too many x-rays can also cause cataracts at any age. Metabolic diseases such as diabetes, galactosemia, and hypoparathyroidism can cause cataracts occasionally. Even children can be born with a cataract if the mother has had Rubella (German measles) or has taken certain harmful drugs.

If the cataract cloudiness turns white, this is a fast-growing cataract and it can become "ripe," or vision-threatening in a matter of weeks. This type is usually found on the back surface (posterior capsule) of the lens. On the other hand, if an examination reveals small bubbles, a yellowish darkening in the center of the lens, or clefts along the peripheral edge of the lens, it is generally a sign of a slow-growing cataract. These types could take 10 to 15 years before they significantly affect the vision.

The important fact is that cataracts do not progress uniformly. They grow for a while, then plateau off for years without any growth. Cataract growth is recognized and active when vision continues to change at a noticeable pace. That's why it is important to have periodic examinations from a qualified professional who can discover, advise and take action at the sign of a cataract.

SHOPSMITH INC., CANTON, a retail woodworking store with the corporation based in Dayton, Ohio, opened for business Feb. 25 in the F and M Center, located on Ford Road, in Canton. Store Manager Bryan Urquhart said company officials staged the grand opening March 5 with the Canton Chamber of Commerce.

THE DELI TRAY, a sit-down or carry-out delicatessen, opened for business March 1 in the Canton Landing Mall, Ford Road, Canton Township. Restaurant owner Harvey Balsam said the restaurant features deli sandwiches and meats and can seat 48 people. He mentioned that he and his partner, Barry Sonne, own another Deli Tray, at 14 Mile and Middlebelt roads, Farmington Hills.

ROMEO CHOCOLATE, A manufacturer of chocolate and candy, opened for business Feb. 7 at the corner of Forest and Wing, Plymouth. The store is self-owned by Tony Stefanelli, who came from Erie, Pa., to start the business.

THE 1988 JUNIOR Achievement fund drive will continue through May 5, with the collected funds going toward support for Junior Achievement programs. One hundred forty-one Romulus High School students are participating in the program. Fifty-six other students from St. Aloysius and Romulus Middle School are also participating in the program.

DR. DONALD LEVERENZ, director of the Career-Occupational Education Service Center at Wayne County Intermediate School District, received the Ralph Wenrich Award in early February at the Michigan Council of Vocational Administrators Conference, Port Huron. The award is one of the most prestigious awards in Michigan education, recognizing outstanding leadership and contributions to vocational education.

THE MICHIGAN CONSUMERS Council has published three tip sheets for consumers in an attempt to keep consumers up to date with new trends in the marketplace. The tip sheets, "Home Equity Loans," "Layaway Purchase Plans" and "Satellite Television Systems," have been designed to supply information to the consumers. The Michigan Consumers Council also recently published a brochure, "Rent-To-Own Facts." This explains information consumers should know when considering rent-to-own deals.

"INTRODUCTION TO DOS," a basic class for personal computer users, will be offered in April by the University of Michigan-Dearborn Downriver computer center. The six-hour course will meet April 5 and 12, and students can choose sessions beginning at 2 p.m. or 6 p.m. The cost will be $60. Three other classes will be offered at the center. "Introduction to Personal Computers," "Introduction to Wordperfect" and "Introduction to Lotus" will be offered at selected times and for separate fees. Call the university at 593-5120 for more information.

STRAIGHT INC. OF Michigan was awarded accreditation from the Joint Commission on Accreditation of Hospitals. Straight is a family-oriented treatment program for drug using young people ages 12 to early 20's.

CONTINENTAL CABLEVISION, A cable company servicing Westland and the third largest cable operator in Michigan, appointed Stephen A. Martin as eastern Michigan district manager. Prior to this appointment, he was the Continental area manager for Roseville, Madison Heights and Hazel Park. He is an undergraduate of Michigan State University and has his M.B.A. from the University of Michigan.

Pizza pizazz

Wayne business has future profits 'in the bag'

By TERRY JACOBY
ANP Staff Writer

In 1983, Don Farmer picked up a pizza at Hungry Howies. But when he walked out of the pizza parlor, he left with more than a pizza and a couple of sodas. He left with an idea.

"A friend of mine who owned Hungry Howies at the time knew that I did work with vinyl and asked me to design a bag for carrying pizzas," explained Farmer. "He wanted a hot bag that wasn't bulky and would keep the pizzas hot."

And the Piping Pizza Pouch was born.

Farmer and his company, Star Industries, is now the largest producer of thermal hot bags in the United States and the chief supplier for Dominoes.

"The growth of the company has really been something," said Farmer, who runs the business with his wife of 16 years, Mona. "And the reason we grew was because of the hot bags and the contract with Dominoes."

"We were starting to show an increase before we signed with them, but now it really has exploded."

Star Industries started 11 years ago with the Farmers and three employees. The business has grown to 25 employees, working two shifts and producing as many as 2,000 hot bags per week.

Farmer signed a three-year contract last year with the largest pizza maker in the country, but Star Industries has already surpassed the original contract. Farmer is in the process of negotiating a new one.

But he has no plans of leaving Dominoes.

"I am very happy with them," said Farmer, who lives in the Glenwood Heights subdivision, Wayne. "Everyone there has been great. I guess we are part of what Tom Monaghan calls the Dominoes family. And they treat people in their 'family' very well."

Star Industries will also produce a newly designed dough cover and a new line of baseball hats for Dominoes. The firm has also been eyed to develop other ideas Dominoes officials have proposed.

"We are also in the process of negotiating a product with one of the nation's largest department stores," said Farmer, who has been very busy the last couple of months due to a moving of his business.

Farmer will move his company within the year to a new building on the corner of Hannan Road and Michigan Avenue, Wayne. With the business still growing, Farmer needs more room and more employees.

"I am looking to add around 25 new jobs," said Farmer. "The building will be 14,000 square foot, compared to the 3,200-square-foot facility we are in now."

The growth, according to Farmer, is not only due to a new contract with Dominoes but because of new product lines company officials will explore.

"It (the growth) is due to diversification and concentrating on going into other projects and the demand for new products."

The company, according to Farmer, will produce five styles of baseball jackets and open a silk screen and monogram shop, using the latest in silk-screen technology.

"We want a place where someone can do the silk screening and the monogram work under one building," said Farmer. "As far as I know, we would be the first in Michigan to offer the complete service."

Farmer, who recently purchased Clark Industries, of Orlando Fla., won't forget about producing a quality hot bag, in spite of his other business ventures.

"It is 80 percent of our business," he said. "We ship to every state in the country, as well as Germany, Canada, Sweden, Norway and Saudi Arabia. It is, by far, our top priority."

Farmer gives credit for his success to hard work, a little luck and a great partner.

"Mona has contributed so much to the business," he said. "I couldn't have done it without her."

Fed hesitancy to change nets a market unchanged

A lot is being written about what the Federal Reserve Board should do, could do, must do or will do. However, all available data seems to indicate that there is little the Fed would want to change.

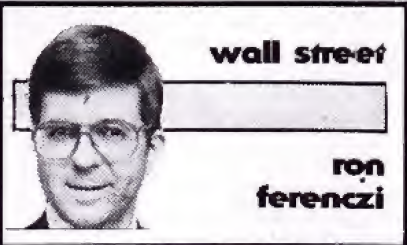

Interest rates are reasonable and confined to move in narrow ranges. Consumer spending is moderate, demand in production is evenly matched.

Bond yields will edge higher, as some Fed action is anticipated. Gold and silver prices will edge higher, but any price increase will be small, as inflation concerns ease.

For this week, the short-term traders will be looking for exit points to close out positions. There will not be a mad rush for the door but rather slow, steady selling pressure.

Intermediate-term traders will follow the action of the short term traders. Long-term traders are not convinced that this is a major sell-off but may be forced to join the sellers if the market shows great weakness.

The overall market conditions for this week seem little changed from last week. Most market participants expect some Fed interaction. However, the market and the economy are reacting in such a way that the Fed can remain on the sidelines. If there is any dramatic change in market conditions, the Fed would react.

Selling pressure will be apparent for most of the session. However, starting today, the support from secondary issues may start to weaken, causing more selling pressure toward the end of the week and into next.

TRENDS: As the first quarter of 1988 soon comes to a close, I believe that earnings by corporations will be less than anticipated because they will be compared with the '87 versus '86 first quarter, which was helped by lower corporate tax rates. This will not be a factor this year or in the years to come.

NOTE: Jobless rate fell to 5.7 percent in February, the lowest level since 1979. Purchasing agents say the U.S. economy is slowing.

Eloise Credit Union marks 40th birthday

A short business meeting will mark the beginning of a lengthy celebration March 19, as members of the Eloise Credit Union, Westland, commemorate the 40th anniversary of the business.

The meeting will begin at 6 p.m. and will be followed by a dinner-dance to celebrate the event. The dinner is open to all current and past members of the credit union - located at 31100 Palmer Road, Westland - and their guests. Tickets are $13 and are available at the credit union offices.

Featured entertainment will be the Big Band Express and Fantasy and Scorpio.

Honored guests for the evening will be William Clark, Booker Dozier, Gordon Carnochan and Joe Burgess. The four are the remaining pioneers who founded the local financial institution.

Albert Kitchen, another pioneer, died last week. However, Kitchen's son will be on hand to receive a plaque in his memory.

Currently, 4,500 members call the Eloise Credit Union "home," according to Frank Murray, acting manager and member for 28 years. The credit union was founded in January 1948 and was originally located in the ward supervisor's office of the Wayne County General Hospital.

The ward supervisor was a volunteer treasurer/manager who conducted the business of the credit union in addition to his regular duties.

Throughout the history of the business, the Eloise Credit Union has been located in several buildings on the old county hospital grounds. Two years ago, the members moved to the present location.

The animals pictured on this page, and countless others, are waiting for you to take them home. A pet will give you love, trust, loyalty and affection, and all that is required in return is a little food, water and a warm place to sleep. That seems a small price to pay for the satisfaction of a wagging tail or a happy purr whenever you come home. When you go into your local animal shelter, open your heart and your home to one of these creatures, the rewards are well worth it!

ONLY ORCHIDS

These greenhouses are blooming with sweet smells of spring can't imagine life without orchids," exclaimed an enthusiastic Alexis Linder, owner of Great Lakes Orchids, on Pennsylvania Road, Romulus.

Linder has been preparing for several weeks for the Mid-American Orchid Show, set for March 26 and 27 at the Holiday Inn, on Six Mile Road, Livonia.

Orchids are more a part of life than most people realize, Linder explained, with 25,000 different species of the flowers grown in every country of the world - except Antarctica. The many varieties vary from tiny miniatures to flowers that grow to be more than 20 feet in height.

Orchids even provide the vanilla flavoring used in baking, Linder said.

But only some of the many varieties of orchids available worldwide are grown in the Romulus greenhouses. That isn't to say the local operation isn't extensive, however. Linder said that several million plants of many species and hybrids can be found in her business on any given day.

"Most of the people in this area don't even know we exist," said Bonnie Gross, propagation technician at Great Lakes. "And we are the largest commercial grower in Michigan."

Linder brought her orchid business to the area in 1982. She has collected several species of the flowers from Central and South America and often uses different species for cross breeding.

Growing orchids is a lengthy process, Linder said. Gross performs the birthing process of the plants only under very sterile conditions. Seed pods, which may contain thousands of almost microscopic seeds, are collected at the initial stage.

The pods are then opened, and the seeds are scraped into small jars containing a nutrient medicine. From there, it takes three to six months for the seeds to "green up" or be visible, Gross explained.

But the growing cycle does not end there. For the next one to three years, the plants are transferred three to four times into different bottles. The transfers are made as the plants outgrow the bottle size.

After living several years in the bottle - and a controlled environment - the plants are moved to community pots, are potted or are affixed to cork, tree-fern slaps. However, it may take another three to five years before the orchids begin to bloom.

The entire process, Linder said, can take about five or six years.

During that time, temperature, light and water - or the amount of them - are critical, Linder explained.

Alex Challis, a grower, is responsible for pest control and helping customers select plants that will adapt to the home environment.

"There's never a shortage of dead leaves," explains Great Lakes owner Alexis Linder (main photo, left). Some orchid roots (above) may extend more than 4 feet.

Challis said orchids at Great Lakes are divided into three temperature categories - cool, intermediate and warm. Cool species like day temperatures (about 60 to 65 degrees). Intermediate plants thrive in temperatures between 65 and 70 degrees, and the warmer plants do well in temperatures of 70 to 75, Challis said.

Once the orchids bloom, selling them is, of course, the order of business. At Great Lakes, both retail and wholesale customers are welcome, Linder said. In addition, mail orders are taken for individuals, botanic gardeners and growers.

And although the greenhouse is little known to area residents, it is a very popular attraction for students studying horticulture, Linder said. Students from the University of Michigan often tour the operation to see how the orchid propagation and culturing process is performed. Students are given a firsthand view of the lab, bottles, seeds and various replanting stages.

But student, horticulturist or plant lover, most people will agree on one thing after leaving the greenhouses, Linder said.

"They're beautiful!"

True dog lovers will know better than to be 'outsmarted'

The following are real-life experiences our students had with their dogs. They shared these stories with us, and we'd like to share them with you:

- One woman, whose dog was dying, held him in a standing position (the dog could not lay down or sit) for five hours until she was able to get help carrying the dog to the vet.
- A slight-built woman who owned a St. Bernard jumped into her in-ground swimming pool to rescue the dog who was trapped under the solar cover. She literally threw the dog, with its massive weight, out of the pool to safety.
- Another dog, accidentally trapped in a swimming pool, was rescued by his master. From that moment on, the dog would not allow any of his mate's puppies near the pool and tried to herd the family children away from the pool also.

• Every single person who starts training with us admits that their dog has been trained. We all can identify with that scene. The people know when the dog needs to go outside, when the dog wants a treat, when the dog is hungry, which blanket or toy the dog favors, whether or not the dog likes the car or a person or a particular place. The dog doesn't even know the English language, yet communicated with us perfectly.

The trick to having humans turn into jelly (as far as puppies go) is in the eyes. Dogs have the most beautiful eyes imaginable. It doesn't matter which breed or what age or what color or sex the dog happens to be. They're all experts at manipulating us with a glance. They do something wrong then look at us with those Bambi-eyes and we're sunk. It takes a lot of logical thinking or a hot temper to by-pass that look and reprimand the dog when needed. And that's how the dog trains us before we get the chance to enroll him in training class.

Because the dog is able to outsmart us all, we always refer to beginning obedience classes as "people training" rather than "dog training."

No matter how our dog behaves, how we've been treated (or mistreated) by him, no one can make us not love that dog.
